LONDON, July 31—Premier Josef Stalin tonight announced the capture of three strongholds on the eastern approaches to Warsaw and Berlin said Soviet forces made a strong attack against Proga, suburb of the Polish capital, at the same time admitting the loss of Kaunas, pre-war capital of Lithuania.

Closing against Warsaw, Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's army took the by-passed German bases at Siedlce, 50 miles east of the capital; Minsk-Mazowiecki, 20 miles east; and Lukow 17 miles south of Siedlce, Stalin reported in an order of the day. Moscow had announced the capture of Lukow last week.

Soviet forces stormed the three towns which Stalin described as powerful German strongholds on the approaches to Warsaw. He ordered the triple victory saluted with 20 salvos of 224 guns.

Lt.-Col. Alfred von Olberg, Nazi commentator, said massed Soviet forces attacked at Praga in an attempt to break through to Warsaw proper, directly across the Vistula, but a German counter-blow broke up the onslaught.

"In the whole area of the Vistula Bend, fighting continues with the same violence," Von Olberg said, indicating that the Red army had

Premier Urges Alberta People To Vote Wisely

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, July 31—When the people of Alberta go to the polls on August 8 they should go thoughtfully and seriously with the thought that they "hold in their hands the destiny of Canada for the next 25 years," Premier E. C. Manning told a public meeting here on Saturday night. Many people in Ontario and Saskatchewan voted CCF to get rid of what they had—there was nothing else to vote for in protest against the old order. In Alberta there is not only another alternative to state socialism but a much better one—Social Credit.

People in this province were 10 years ahead of the other provinces. In 1935 they made up their minds to get rid of the old order of the past.

Mr. Manning spoke in support of David Ure, M.L.A. for Red Deer, who is seeking re-election. V. Anderson, Innisfail, was chairman, and O. B. Moore, Social Credit candidate for Ponoka, was on the platform in addition to the premier and Mr. Ure.

TELLS OF PROGRESS

In speaking of progress made in Alberta since the Social Credit government came to power in 1935, Premier Manning pointed out that today Alberta was acknowledged as the leader in the Dominion in public health services. The educational system in this province was known as the model for all the other provinces.

Many misleading statements had been made by opponents in respect to the way the natural resources of this province had been handled. "Never at any time has the Social Credit government

Conservative Chief In Quebec Resigns

QUEBEC, July 31.—(CP)—Bona Arsenault, who resigned Saturday as president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Quebec province, said in a statement last night that "it is my duty to dissociate myself from a political movement which for several weeks past has been under the evil influence of a reactionary and noisy clique."

Mr. Arsenault resigned a week after he had received a telegram from Progressive Conservative Leader John Bracken, in which the national leader disassociated himself from an attack on Senator T. D. Bouchard, in 'L'Opinion Publique, French counterpart of the official Progressive organ.

In his statement, Mr. Arsenault said the "Progressive Conservative party is trying to win votes in the other provinces by attacking Quebec." He announced Saturday that L'Opinion Publique of which he has been editor for several months, no longer be published here.

Premier Churchill May Warn of Near Nazi Terror Arms

LONDON, July 31.—(CP)—When Prime Minister Churchill appears before the House of Commons on Wednesday he is expected to give Britons a sober and frank warning that the Germans may be ready to launch new terror weapons upon them.

Nazi threats of other "secret weapons" to augment the rockets—including larger flying bombs—are not taken lightly by the government. The prime minister is expected to give indications of the steps planned to meet them.

At the same time he probably will give the first full official Allied report on what is known of happenings inside Germany and the possible effects.

184 Candidates Are Seeking Alberta Legislative Seats

A total of 184 candidates, 180 belonging to four political parties and four "lone wolves" have been officially nominated to contest for 57 seats in Alberta's tenth Legislative Assembly in the general election of Aug. 8 it was disclosed Monday in official tabulation of returning officers' reports. Twenty candidates were named in Edmonton, to contest the city's five seats in the Legislature.

When nominations closed Saturday, Social Credit and CCF parties each had 57 candidates in the race. The Independent party comes next with 36; Labor Progressive has 30, and there are four unaffiliated nominees.

The total of 184 candidates was an increase of 19 over the number in the field in the 1940 Alberta election, but a reduction of 56 from the 240 named in the 1935 contest, when the Social Credit forces under the late Premier William Aberhart Swept all but five seats in a 63-seat legislature.

Contracts in Sask. To Be "Revised"

FLIN FLON, Man., July 31.—(CP)—Many contracts and agreements with respect to development of natural resources in Saskatchewan would soon have to come up for consideration and revision and in some cases outright cancellation, Resources Minister J. L. Phelps said here Saturday night.

Future contracts, he said, would have to be negotiated with five main points involved: provision for taking over any undertaking when deemed in social interest to do so, continuous option clause giving government right to take delivery or control of product when ever in social interest; provision for a sliding scale of royalties, fair wages and provision empowering government to take over idle plants if in social interest to do so.

He said the government was not afraid to go into business if it is to the benefit of people that it can be done, and said government was prepared to enter into partnership with capital for industrial development, but it must be a legal partnership.

U.S. Will Produce One Year's Supply Liquor in August

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP)—In the 31 days beginning tomorrow, United States distillers expect to produce about as much whisky and gin as are ordinarily made in a full year. This is possible, liquor sources said today, because distillers will be on a 24-hour basis and their facilities have been vastly expanded by their war production of alcohol.

Leaning Tower Not Destroyed Allies Declare

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY BEFORE PISA, July 31.—(AP)—The Leaning Tower of Pisa is neither destroyed nor damaged by artillery fire, an observer in a nearby post declared tonight.

One Berlin broadcast said shellfire had destroyed the historic tower, one of the seven wonders of the world. (Subsequent German broadcasts however, did not repeat the charge.)

Fifth Army officers declared last week that the Germans were using it as an artillery observation post.

Relax Censorship On Secret Route

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, July 31 — Reflecting the change in the war situation, it is understood that the Canadian and American governments have agreed to lift the curtain of censorship which has shrouded military developments in Hudson Bay, Baffin Land and other parts of the northeastern Arctic region of Canada.

Known among newspapermen as one of the spectacular stories of the war, the Northeast Staging Route which was built to link Winnipeg directly with Europe by a chain of airports to serve as stepping stones around the North Atlantic ocean has been mentioned many times but detailed descriptions have been censored for security reasons. As a result most people in Canada have known little of nothing about important military works constructed in the western Arctic.

U.S. Army Plane With 26 Aboard Is Reported Lost

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP)—Loss of a United States Army transport plane with 26 persons aboard, including 18 patients, while en route from Scotland to Mitchel Field, New York, was announced Saturday by the war department. The plane, a C-54 transport, presumably went down Wednesday morning between Iceland and Newfoundland, the department said. More than 150 planes of the air transport command and the RCAF have joined in the search, together with surface craft of the navy, coast guard and other services.

Nazis Reel Back Less Than Five Miles From Florence

ROME, July 31—German troops reeled back from their last hill defences less than five miles southwest of Florence today after losing heavily in men and armor in a series of desperate counter-attacks that failed to crack the British siege lines below the city.

The battle lines before Pisa remained stalemated but a German Transocean News Agency said Allied artillery had begun to shell the historic leaning tower inside the city. Transocean denied American field reports that the Germans were using the tower as an observation post.

(The National Broadcasting Company quoted the Berlin radio as saying the tower of Pisa had been destroyed by Allied artillery fire.)

British Gain at Furious Pace, Yanks Nearing French Interior

LONDON, July 31.—(CP)—British forces swept ahead at what field reports called a furious pace today in a new offensive south of Caumont, and to the west a strong American armored force drove deeply into Avranches in a dash of 18 miles from last-reported positions.

The Americans, after virtually destroying six German divisions and mauling two others, threatened to break into the interior of France.

Field dispatches said American armored forces fought in the streets of Avranches tonight in an effort to clinch control of that springboard for a break into central France and reported also that Granville, 13 miles to the northwest, was seized.

British troops, meanwhile, had scored an eight-mile advance on a seven-mile front south of Caumont.

CAPTURE HIGH POINT

This British smash had taken Hill 309, the highest point of land yet seized in the invasion—a 900-foot-height just east of St. Martin-Des-Besaces, the hamlet of Gaiet at the point of the salient and a dozen other villages.

LONDON, July 31—(AP)—Avranches has been captured by the American forces a Reuters News Agency dispatch said tonight.

Already termed a success by British spokesmen, this offensive was rolling ahead with the support of a sky full of of aircraft.

Activity along the Canadian front south of Caen during last night and this morning was confined to patrol activity by the Canadians and spasmodic shelling and mortaring by the enemy, Louis V. Hunter, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported.

Many Seeking To Get Names On Voters' List

Revision of Edmonton city voters' list for the provincial general election started Monday morning with a steady stream of applicants for inclusion in the final list, according to H. H. Crawford, city returning officer.

Revision of the voters' list is taking place at returning officer's headquarters, 9832 Jasper avenue, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It has been arranged to keep the office open until 10 p.m. on each of these days for the convenience of those who cannot apply during business hours.

Last week it was announced that 62,168 names had been placed on the voters' list by city enumerators, and at that time another 1,000 names were expected to be added at the court of revision.

Mr. Crawford predicted Monday a heavy revision would be entailed if applicants kept up Monday morning's pace. Any person entitled under the Election Act to vote, who was missed by regular enumerators, can have his name put on the voters' list by appearing at revision hearings.

Preparations are being completed by Mr. Crawford for holding an advance poll in Edmonton on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Advance polling will be held between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m. and 7 and 10 p.m. on these three days, at 9832 Jasper avenue. Persons intending to vote at the advance poll are requested to bring their enumerator's slip with them, to facilitate clerical work at the poll.

On election day polls in the cities will be open from 9 a.m. until 7 p.m. and rural polls will be open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Steady Rain Here Over Week-End

Rain fell almost steadily over the week-end, putting a damper on, or cancelling outdoor activities. As the crops in this area already had an ample reserve supply of moisture, agricultural authorities saw a threat to the welfare of the grain, a threat which might be overcome by hot, dry weather.

Light rain fell Sunday morning from 8:15 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. From 9:55 a.m. to midnight light rain fell intermittently. A total amount of precipitation of .20 of an inch fell to 6:30 a.m. Monday.

The weather forecast for Monday and Tuesday is "overcast with light rain tonight, becoming partly cloudy with scattered showers on Tuesday, slightly warmer.

The estimated low temperature tonight is 50 degrees, the high tomorrow 65 degrees. The 2 p.m. temperature was 55 degrees.

The maximum temperature Sunday was 61 degrees, the estimated high today 65 degrees; the minimum Sunday, 49 degrees, the overnight low 52 degrees.

Has Most to Lose

Says Organized Labor Doesn't Want Socialism

LONDON, Ont., July 31—(CP)—J. M. Macdonnell of Toronto, former president of the National Trust company, said in an address prepared for delivery today at a service club meeting here that "organized labor doesn't want socialism" but has an important stake in maintaining freedom of economic action.

"Labor unions are as much a part of the capitalist system as the principle of limited liability," he said, and labor and agriculture have more to lose than the business man, manufacturer, importer, exporter or salesman or prorfessional man.

THREAT TO SYSTEM

Mr. Macdonnell said that the present capitalism system, the main economic characteristic of which is responsible individual enterprise, has great flexibility, but that "We now have a threat to this flexible, tolerant system in the shape of a political body aiming at the controls and rigidity of socialism."

Two kinds of people want socialism, he said, "A few who have debts and are discontented . . . and a group of social theorists whose human sympathies are in most cases admirable but who entirely lack political or administrative experience."

"In a word, the CCF is without experience of heavy responsibility or business administration."

The CCF has made progress through an appeal "aimed directly at two powerful human emotions: fear and hatred." The party, he said, "has persuaded some unthinking people that espousal of socialism is the only remedy against a return to the 1930's and that our present level of employment is due entirely to government controls."

Mr. Macdonnell said reasons for present heavy employment was caused by the war-created demand, and "would be impossible if it were not for our huge taxes and borrowings."

CCF CLAIMS

"The CCF has studiously encouraged the belief that private enterprise is chaotic, planless, heartless," but private enterprise "is and always has been in favor of co-operative, co-ordinated national planning as opposed to regimentation imposed by political theorists."

In the field of planning for post-war recontruction, private enterprise must make its position plain to the public. The function of government should be to "stimulate, encourage and regulate private enterprise."

Speaks in Quebec

CCF Leader Against Our Empire Unit

QUEBEC, July 31 — (CP) — National CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell, digressing from a prepared text, told a political rally here last night that "Canada must play a part in the international field, but how shall we be able to play our part if we simply belong to another organization and we are not completely ourselves?"

Mr. Coldwell was addressing a meeting held in favor of the four CCF candidates in Quebec district at the next Aug. 8 Quebec general elections.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Coldwell and Mrs. Angus MacInnis, member of the British Columbia legislature and wife of the CCF member of parliament for Vancouver East, held a meeting at nearby Connaconna but the speakers were unable to obtain a hall and held the meeting, in a field, addressing the crowd from a parked truck.

Mr. Coldwell said that "what we have done for the war effort, we must now do for peace."

He said that progress of the CCF party had been such in the last few years that "it has become today the only Canadian political party which is national in scope," adding that only the CCF party has candidates in all provinces under the same banner."

wheeled up its main forces for the final assault on the Polish capital.

Nazi broadcasts said the Russians were closing in on Warsaw from the south, east and northeast, that the hard-pressed German army had abandoned Siedlce, big rail junction 50 miles east of Warsaw, and that a battle was raging inside Jelgava, Latvian stronghold 22 miles below the Gulf of Riga.

A Nazi military spokesman said a great battle was raging on a semi-circular field about six and one-quarter miles from Warsaw. The high command claimed that in the Warsaw area "a break-through of strong enemy forces to the capital was prevented in heavy fighting."

SEPARATE DRIVES

Gen. Ivan Cherniakovsky's Red army was bearing down on East Prussia from two directions, and the outpouring of bad news for the Nazis from Berlin indicated that the battle for the first strip of fatherland soil threatened by the Allies was shaping up swiftly.

Already Cherniakhovsky's troops were storming across the Suwalki triangle, a segment of Poland grabbed by the Nazis in 1939 and annexed to East Prussia. With Kaunas fallen, there was no sign that the battered Germans would be able to check the curving Soviet assault are closing against the entire southeastern frontier of East Prussia.

The German high command acknowledged the loss of Kaunas, erroneously reported abroad to have fallen last week. For the second time within a week Berlin reported the evacuation of Siedlce, indicating that the looping Nazi salient east of Warsaw had collapsed and admitting that the Russians were closing against the Polish capital from that direction as well as from the south and northeast.

FORMER CAPITAL

Kaunas, 42 miles east of East Prussia, was the Lithuanian capital until the Soviets shifted it to Wilno. This city of 90,000 and captured Grodno to the south were the watchdog bastions of the direct approaches to East Prussia, now laid open for the breaching within artillery sound of the frontier.

Moscow had reported Kaunas virtually besieged, with the capture of outposts half a dozen miles from the city proper on three sides.

The German Transocean Agency interrupted a broadcast of the daily war communique to quote a Nazi military commentator as saying that the German "strategic retreat is in the last phase of the defensive conduct of the war in the east. After that the offensive conduct of the war will begin."

From neither Berlin nor Moscow, however, came any sign that the decimated German army of the eastern front was in any shape to undertake a stand against the Russian forces sweeping westward.

Far to the northeast all the Germans in upper Latvia and Estonia were threatened with imminent entrapment by the Soviet drive within striking distance of the Baltic. The trap already was sprung for practical purposes, with the last rail line out of that pocket cut, and the Nazi-reported storming of Jelgava below Riga apparently put the seal of success on the drive.

Jelgava already was by-passed, the Germans admitted, by a Soviet push to the area of Birse, three miles to the north.

"While Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's forces open the battle of Warsaw," a British United Press dispatch from Moscow said, "other Soviet elements simultaneously are opening the battle for the first foothold on the soil of Germany itself."

Soviet front dispatches described the opening of Cherniaknovsky's new offensive against East Prussia as having crashed the Niemen line, and quoted German prisoners as calling it the "line of catastrophe."

'Soviet forces are flowing forward in such numbers that traffic control officers are red-eyed with fatique from sleepless hours of directing the movement," the Moscow report said.

A Berlin military spokesman was quoted as saying that the Germans were falling back on the eastern front "to gain time."

King George Poses As Soldiers Take Snaps For Albums

ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED ARMIES IN ITALY, July 29 — (Delayed)—(AP)—While his armies battled a few miles to the north in an effort to capture Florence, King George of Britain followed their moves today in a headquarters map room here.

The King's presence in this pleasant lakeside camp caused little stir, but it was marked by a gesture typical of his entire tour. Informed that British and American soldiers wished to take pictures of him for their personal albums, the King made an appointment to meet them. He posed for the amateurs as long as they wished while experts advised them on problems of proper exposure.

Michele, five miles southwest of Florence, where veteran New Zealand troops stood fast under a day-and-night rain of German counter-blows, and then surged back to drive the battered Nazis into the hills to the north.

HEAVY FIGHTING

"Very heavy fighting" continued in the San Michele sector throughout Sunday, an Allied communique said, but the New Zealanders were firmly in control of the town and their advanced elements were striking into the new enemy positions today.

The Germans, battling furiously to delay the 8th Army advance before abandoning Florence and falling back into their Gothic line behind the city, threw crack troops and their heaviest armor into the battle prodigally.

Official reports indicated, however, that British ground forces, backed up by low-flying attack bombers, were giving the enemy a savage beating and taking a heavy toll of German lives and armor.

INDIAN UNITS GAIN

Farther to the west, Indian units of the 8th Army cleared the last major German resistance from a 10-mile line on the south bank of the Arno river between Empoli and Montelupo, thel atter only 11 miles west of Florence.

There was no change on the main 5th Army front below Pisa, where American units were massing along the south bank of the Arno river in preparation for an assault on the northern half of the city still in German hands.

Meanwhile, Allied headquarters revealed that the Polish troops in the 8th Army right flank had captured 108 enemy guns in their drive up the Adriatic coast, killed more than 2,000 Germans and took 2,000 prisoners.

Since July 17 alone, the Poles killed more than 900 others.

The oil industry had spent approximately $135,000,000 in Alberta and the total value of oil received from these industies and companies was approximately $118,000,000. In the same period the provincial government had collected $13,000,000 in royalties and rentals. If the government had been in the oil business they would have had a debt of about $18,000,000 and would also nave lost the $13,000,000 revenue.

SOCIALIST ATTITUDE

Mr. Manning was not surprised that the Socialists were soul-pedaling oil since the facts were becoming known. The Socialists proposed to take over the power companies and provide rural electrification. "The problem today in rural electrification is not ownership of the companies but the cost of transmission lines to the farmers," said the speaker.

In post-war plans the Social Credit government had again gone farther than any other province in Canada. A post-war reconstruction committee had been set up and a brief submitted to Ottawa. It was the only brief which told how the plans were to be financed. A veterans welfare commission had been set up to give every possible assistance to men and women of the services in re-establishing themselves.

The Premier explained the government plan to provide land for soldiers who wished to go farming. "No other province in this country has gone as far as your Social Credit government in this respect," declared Mr. Manning.

FIGHT MONEY RING

Everything the Social Credit government does and everything the movement does is designed to overcome and break financial monopoly. The problem before the war was and the one after the war will be not one of production but one of distribution. Under the present monopoly system there is never enough paid into the pockets of the people to enable them to buy what they need. The only government that was trying to do anything about it was the Social Credit government of Alberta.

"I wouldn't even waste your time talking about the Independent party in Alberta," said Mr. Manning, as they were "washed up and hung out to dry."

Mr. Ure, the candidate, spoke of what the government had done to aid the farming industry and of their entrance into the fire insurance field which he maintained resulted in other companies reducing their rates. They had tried to improve the lot of the pioneers by increasing pensions. Every foot of road built since 1935 had been paid for. The government had reduced the provincial debt almost 17 million dollars in the past nine years. "The Social Credit government was the only government in Canada which has consistently reduced its debt in the last nine years," said Mr. Ure.

Mr. Ure spoke of road grants which had been made in this constituency citing them as an example of what could be obtained by the co-operation of the people with the government.

Allied Armies In France Gain At Rapid Pace

sula was described as "fairly strong" and its position as "well into" the town.

The burst to Avranches, at the angle formed by the Normandy and Brest spurs, closed a new trap on Germans fighting to the north around Granville and along the line of Gavray to Tessy-Sur-Vire, threatening to add to the 10,000 prisoners taken since the start of the American offensive last Tuesday.

Seizure of the pivotal Avranches would place the Americans on a springboard for an eastward drive for Paris, 160 miles away, outflanking the remaining German forces to the north, or a southward plunge to lop off the Brest peninsula.

ENCIRCLING DRIVE

Meanwhile other columns pressed an encircling drive around the obstacle city of Torigni-Sur-Vire, 27 miles inland, capturing the hamlets of La Reaviere and La Frectiere to the south-east.

The 5th parachute and the 77th, 91st, 243rd, 352nd and 353rd German infantry divisions were said to have been virtually knocked out of existence by Gen. Bradley's smashing offensive.

In addition, the crack 2nd Elite Guard and Lehr armored divisions were believed to have been badly smashed but with enough of their original equipment and personnel to retain their identities.

GRINDING UP NAZIS

Thus the remnants of at least eight divisions were being rapidly ground up in the American machine, which appeared to be rapidly completing a 105-mile Allied arc across the base of the Normandy peninsula whence to break into central France.

Back of the most advanced Avranches spearhead, more American armor was splitting a corridor between the Vire and the sea, driving to within two miles of Villedieu, 12 miles northeast of Avranches.

The breach to Avranches was described by a qualified observer as creating "immense possibilities."

Headquarters disclosed yesterday that it was the American 19th Corps, and possibly other units, which broke the back of German defences in the current offensive.

REVEAL DIVISIONS

This corps is the third American one disclosed to be in France. The others are the 5th and 7th.

Besides the 2nd and 3rd U.S. armored divisions, it was announced that the 1st, 4th, 9th and 30th infantry divisions also are taking part in the push.

There was no indication from field reports that Canadian units—other than supporting aircraft of the RCAF—were active in the thrust south of Caen.

Last report of positions of Canadian units at the front located them along a three-mile line from St. Andre Sur Orne, on the east bank of the river, to the area of Tilly la Campagne, farther to the east.

10,000 PRISONERS

Prisoners were reported pouring in by the thousands as the American drive swept forward. Already more than 10,000 Germans have been rounded up since last Tuesday.

A second American column shoving south from Coutances, had penetrated within three miles of the coastal city of Granville. This area was believed practically neutralized by the deeper push to Avranches, 15 miles southward, which cut the highway to Paris, 180 miles due east.

At least 600 tanks were disclosed officially to be participating in the American drive.

On the American eastern flank the 1st Army crossed the Torigni Sur Vivre-Caumont road, a mile north and three miles east of Torigni.

CLEAN UP POCKET

A pocket of Germans trapped in the Soulles area east of Coutances was being cleaned up quickly.

The offensive on the British-Canadian front in the centre of the Allied line, which jumped off at 6:30 a.m., yesterday, was moving forward against tough German resistance and unfavorable terrain south of Caumont.

The offensive, on a seven-mile front, caught the Germans off-balance with most of their armor still poised before Caen. Dempsey's Tommies were taking advantage of this break before the enemy had a chance to regroup for a counter-attack.

The 2nd Army's advance carried past St. Jean-Brecu des Essartiers, 4½ miles southwest of Caumont, while a parallel force just to the west captured Les Loges and was moving forward.

AERIAL SUPPORT

Allied planes supported group operations on both sectors of the front Sunday and a terrific aerial barrage by more than 1,000 R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. heavy bombers preceded the British drive. Strong formations of medium bombers continued to support the advancing troops after the heavy bombers had softened up the enemy.

Great Age Ahead Is Seen by Ford

DETROIT, July 31. — (AP) — Henry Ford, who was 81 years old yesterday, visualizes a "great age" ahead, "if we apply what we have learned and mix it with plenty of hard work."

He believes also that commerce through the air and over vastly improved world highways will make international boundary lines unnecessary.

In a statement issued at his office here on the eve of the birthday, the industrialist said "We should be satisfied with an armistice" to end the present war, but should "pull aside the curtains and see to it that the real causes for war are exposed."

Ford, who attributes most of his success to the faith of his wife, Clara Bryant Ford, added:

"The women should be running the world; I believe they could do a better job."

Of his great bomber factory he said: "We are thinking of using Willow Run for the production of tractors and other kinds of farm tools. We are not going to scrap a bit of machinery. We can find ways of making use of every piece of it and there just isn't any sense to the idea of storing up machinery in big warehouses."

Report Turkey Soon to Break With Germany

By J. EDWARD MURRAY
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1944, by British United Press

LONDON, July 31—Ankara dispatches said today that Turkey probably will break off diplomatic and economic relations with Germany within the next few days. Berlin newspapers predicted she would cede air and naval bases to the Allies.

(A BBC broadcast said the Turkish cabinet will meet in secret session today, while tomorrow Premier Sukru Saracoglu will make a statement on Turkish foreign policy at a special session of assembly members belonging to the people's party.)

The Turkish government's decision was expected to be revealed to editors of Turkish newspapers at an urgent meeting called at Ankara for today, but presumably will not be announced until after the grand national assembly meets Wednesday.

BREAK IMMINENT

Baron Franz Von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, has warned German residents and visitors to be prepared to leave Turkey on short notice and some already have left. German diplomats at Istanbul and elsewhere in Turkey were reported to have left their posts and entrained for Ankara.

Berlin broadcasts and newspaper dispatches implied that Germany was reconciled that a break was imminent, but the weekly Berlin newspaper Montagspost warned that a rupture in relations "can lead to war."

Though this appeared a veiled threat Germany would declare war on Turkey, Adolf Hitler's legions already were so strained on the western, southern and eastern fronts there seemed little possibility he could spare additional forces for a blow at Turkey.

1,700 American Heavy Bombers Raid Continent

ing rail yards and bridges from Domfront to Evreux and as far south as Tours.

Munich was the main objective of the British-based Armada.

The new raids came after RAF medium and fighter bombers ranged over a wide area in France last night, blasting enemy communications in one of their busiest nights since D-Day.

Some of today's raiders dropped their loads visually but others encountered thick clouds, forcing them to use overcast bombing technique. The air force announcement identified the German targets only as military objectives.

GERMAN WARNINGS

The Berlin radio interrupted a program this morning to warn that Allied battle formations were approaching western Germany and continental stations began leaving the air. German home-front targets had been bomb-free since Saturday, Allied heavy bombers taking a layoff yesterday and again last night.

Targets of the British medium bombers in northern France last night included Seine river crossings and their approaches, railway installations and river barges.

They operated as far south of the battle area as Tour and Angers, while Mosquitos swung north of Paris almost to the Belgium border, bombing and strafing road movement between Arras, Doullens, Amiens and Rouen.

Give Second Reading

All Parties Support Bill Stabilizing Farm Prices

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, July 31.—(CP)—The Commons, at its first Saturday night sitting of the present session, gave second reading and passed through committee all but three clauses of the bill aimed at assuring farmers stabilized prices for their products during the post-war period.

The bill, supported by all parties in the house, was put forward by Agriculture Minister Gardiner as a means of guaranteeing farmers against losses on their products during the years immediately after the war or in the years following the transition from war to peace.

Because price controls prevented farmers from obtaining high returns for their products during the war years, Mr. Gardiner said it would be unfair to:

1. Order farmers, immediately the war was over, to reduce their production to the level at which it was certain the commodities could be sold at a given price.

NOT SELL AT COST

2. Ask farmers to sell at the cost of production, without considering any losses they sustained because of the war or any returns they were denied through wartime controls.

3 Hold that because farmers have an exceptionally good crop during the transition period they should be prepared to accept a low return per unit.

He said the bill would provide for the setting of a floor price under any natural product of agriculture except wheat, which is handled by the Canadian Wheat Board. Provisions of the bill might also be made applicable to products processed from agricultural products.

The bill would provide for the setting up of a three-man board to supervise the prices of farm products. If the price of any product dropped below what was considered a fair return to the farmer the board would prescribe a price at which it would buy the products.

$200,000,000 FUND

A fund of $200,000,000 would be placed at the disposal of the board, which would be empowered to buy and sell farm products on any market. Profits from the sales would be reevrted into the revolving fund. Losses suffered would be replaced by monies voted by parliament.

Replying to John Blackmore, Social Credit house leader, Mr. Gardiner said money for the fund would only have to be raised through general taxation if the board suffered a loss of most of its dealings.

Mr. Blackmore said he supported the principle of the bill, but felt that money for the fund should not come out of taxation.

"The taxation structure upon the Canadian people is altogether too destructive right now and it must be relaxed," he said.

Sources other than taxation would have to be found to provide money for the fund. He doubted whether $200,000,000 would be anywhere near suffielent to keep a floor under all farm products.

BACKED BY DIEFENBAKER

John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) said he also supported the bill, but found in it "no mandatory requirement on the board to assure our farm population a fair return for the products they produce."

"If this measure is to be anything more than the promise of a hope, there must be something in it to show that the prices farmers are going to receive are going to assure them of at least cost, plus a fair return," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

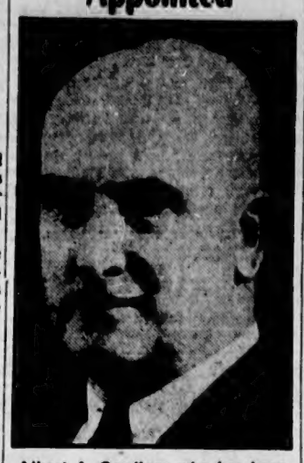

P. E. Wright (CCF—Melfort) said he did not think the floor prices board would be able to operate successfully if speculative markets in Canada were allowed to continue, and urged that agricultural associations or co-operative be allowed to appoint the members to the various commodity boards and advisory committees to be set up under the three-man board.

Mines Explode Close to King

FIFTH ARMY ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS IN ITALY, July 31.—(AP)—Two German mines were exploded less than 300 yards from where King George VI of Britain, Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York, Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark and other British and American military leaders were lunching Friday.

Appointed

Albert A. Gardiner who has been appointed to the position of general passenger traffic manager, Canadian National Railways, it was announced Monday by Alistair Fraser, vice-president in charge of traffic. Mr. Gardiner began his railway career 37 years ago, and has been assistant general passenger traffic manager since 1930. He succeeds C. W. Johnston, who has retired on pension after more than 50 years railroad service.

Markets Said Crucial Need Following War

CALGARY, July 31.—(CP)—The crucial need of Canada and of Alberta in the post-war period will be to maintain markets and find new markets to take the place of war markets, Tim Buck, national leader of the Labor-Progressive party, said here last night at a Labor-Progressive election rally. James A. Macpherson, provincial leader, and the five Calgary candidates of the party in the Alberta election, spoke.

Mr. Buck maintained that this could be done by co-operation with the United Nations to supply the needs of the nations of Europe and Asia in the period of rehabilitation, notably those of Soviet Russia. Co-operation with Russia, he declared, was esseential to such a plan and to maintenance of a lasting peace.

CCF "RIDICULOUS"

The attitude of the CCF in ignoring world markets and foreign trade as the means of financing its post-war program, Mr. Buck described as "worse than ridiculous. It's irresponsible. It assumes that the CCF can solve our problems by magic. You can't transform the economy of a country by making a nice speech."

"There is nothing," said Mr. Buck, "that the CCF or Social Credit wants for the people of Alberta or of Canada that I do not want, but we must be careful that wanting these things we do not repeat the experience of the people of Germany, who, wanting them too, got fascism."

Mr. Buck charged that the reason the CCF ignored increased markets and prosperity that could result from trading with the rest of the world was because they did not want to be brought into contact with Soviet Russia.

Continue Payments For Oats and Barley

WINNIPEG, July 31—(CP)—The Canadian wheat board announced Saturday that the system of making advance equalization payments on oats and barley will be continued during the 1944-45 crop year. The payment will be 10 cents a bushel on oats and 15 cents a bushel on barley. Equalization payments represent payments accruing to the producer through the export sale of oats and barley at higher than domestic ceiling prices.

Broad Housing Program Urged By Committee

OTTAWA, July 31—(CP)—The Commons committee on reconstruction Saturday recommended that proposed national housing legislation contain provisions to allow the government to give every city, town and village the help necessary for the "improvement of present homes, the building of new homes and the elimination of slum conditions."

That recommendation and others were made in a committee report tabled in the Commons by Gray Turgeon (L., Caribou), chairman. A final report will be tabled later.

The committee recommended "Any immediate action that may be needed to make certain that all Canadian people have an opportunity to secure proper homes through ownership or tenancy."

The report added:

ERADICATE CONDITIONS

"But we firmly believe that in the matter of housing the objective of government and parliament should be the complete eradication of any industrial condition which creates a 'low-income' group of people who work and render service to the community but whose remuneration for such work is so small as to make it impossible for them to have decent, healthy home conditions without government assistance."

Another recommendation urged that "all possible steps" be taken to make certain discharged members of the forces will be given "every opportunity to establish themselves in adequately decent home surroundings."

The committee urged that the government make certain "of its authority to give sufficient help to housing and rehousing in farm and rural areas generally."

NO HELP GIVEN

"Actual operations under the present legislation gave no help whatever to many towns and villages removed from centres of population or to rural areas," the report said.

The committee found that the elimination of slums had become difficult and expensive because of the high value of lands upon which "unsatisfactory" apartment buildings had been erected, and recommended that action be taken to prevent the construction of more buildings which might eventually become slums.

It urged that the government, in providing housing aid, ask the municipalities affected by the aid to refuse construction permits for any buildings which might deteriorate into slums.

Reserves Flood Russian Armies With New Power

By DANIEL DE LUCE

MOSCOW, July 31.—(AP)—While the great Russian offensive rolls on, with the imminent prospect of ripping Poland and all the Baltic republics from under the Nazi boot, Soviet manpower is flooding the Red armies with reserves which will not only make good the losses of the summer blitzkrieg but will put the army at a new peak of strength.

Young reservists, some still in civilian garb, can be seen under the command of veteran noncommissioned officers marching over the cobblestones of Moscow and every other training centre of the Soviet Union.

Some observers here declare Germany may collapse within three months, but neither in Joseph Stalin's high command nor among the millions on the home front is there the slightest indication of slackening up. The mobilization for war continues.

In addition to the vast assembling of manpower for the Red army, Soviet railway workers—among them nearly 1,000,000 women—also were being girded for the final attack on Germany.

In celebration of all-union railwayman's day it was announced that almost all of 21 railways retaken from the enemy now are operating.

Canuck Fliers Bag 135 Planes Over Normandy

WITH THE R.C.A.F. IN FRANCE July 31—(CP)—Seventy-nine per cent of all enemy aircraft shot down in Normandy during the first four weeks of the invasion by a crack empire fighter group were destroyed by R.C.A.F. units, it was announced Satufday. The total of aircraft definitely destroyed by that group was 170, of which 135 were shot down by Canadians. A tactical and photographic reconnaissance wing largely Canadian, is commanded by Group Capt. E. H. G. Moncrief, A.F.C., of Winnipeg.

Soldier Says:

Combined Canuck, U.S. Force Greatly Feared by Germans

TEMPLE, Texas, July 31.—(CP)—"The men in baggy pants," a Canadian-American special service force which served in Italy and were so-called because of the roomy trousers they wore for mountain-climbing, "put the fear of God into the Germans," an American member said here yesterday.

Sgt. Jasper Pennington of Salon, Ia., here for hospital treatment as a battle casualty, said Canadian soldiers, who comprised about half the force, each "have enough guts for two men" and cited the example of Wilfred McDonald of Montreal.

"One day at Cassino, he (McDonald) and his machine-gun squad had taken part in a flanking movement on an enemy position. In order to hold their gains they had to set up their gun in an area where there was absolutely no cover. The ground was so rocky the gun couldn't be dug in. McDonald said: 'You guys get the hell out of here. There will be plenty of mortar shells busting around here in nothing flat.'

HELD GERMANS OFF

"He made them obey him and from a distance his squad watched the shells burst all around him while he held the Germans off with machine-gun fire. Finally, one of the mortars got him in both legs. When that happened, Pte. Waldo Birge of Pittsburgh, an American in the Canadian army, ran out and took over the gun while the other boys dragged McDonald to safety.

The squad kept right on holding the Germans off by risking only one man at a time. They kept the Jerries pinned down so well there was only one casualty in the advancing group and that guy had enough guts to match his bayonet against a German with a machine pistol when his gun was empty. The machine pistol killed him. The other boys got the German that fired it."

Around Anzio, related Sgt. Edward C. Lee of San Antonio, Texas, the unit made 31 offensive night patrols in a row.

"Sgt. A. L. Wright from Alberta did so damn much good fighting that it's hard to tell just what he did," Sgt. Lee said. "He was one of those guys that don't know when to quit. About the best thing I ever saw him pull was an attack on a machine-gun nest down a slope. Sgt. Brotherton, another Canadian, lobbed a grenade into the nest. The two Jerries raised up and Spud Wright just about cut them in half with a Tommy gun."

LONDON, July 31—(CP)—Sqdn. Ldr. The victim was a ME109 that trailed smoke after McLeod's first burst and the pilot baled out as the Canadian poured in more shots.

Edmonton Man Sees No Wilful Waste in North

TACOMA, Wash., July 31—(AP)—Confidence that there has been "no wilful waste and extravagance" in the disposal of materials used in the construction of the Alaska highway was expressed here Saturday by C. D. Jacox, prominent Edmonton business man, here on a business trip.

"In all my associations and business connections with men working on this highway, I have seen or heard of nothing which would substantiate the charges that are being made," said Jacox. "I am absolutely convinced that the public is being misled, and that it will be shown that whatever waste took place was necessitated by circumstances.

PUBLIC UNAWARE

"Of these circumstances the public has no idea," he continued. "Just as instance, look at this example of a couple of roof ventilators being dumped. Do you know what a big bulky thing a ventilartor is and how much it costs?

"You can build a ventilator for a fair-sized building for about $10. But to ship that thing back to the United States you'd use manpower, crating, shipping space and when you did get it down here to whom would you sell it? And there's no wood up there. You'd have to bring the wood in, using more shipping space, to crate it.

"These were good engineers and contractors who went in there to do this job at the least possible expense to the United States government and if they did destroy materials because it was cheaper than to bring them down, I say they should be commended for it."

He said he wouldn't be surprised if medical supplies were dumped, because if cartons were broken it would be cheaper to destroy drugs than bring in packing materials and ship them to an uncertain or nonexistent market.

Keeping things Rolling

WHEN WAR CAME—and Canadian industry began the battle for stepped-up production, Imperial Oil Limited swung into supporting action with a powerful weapon.

It was petroleum research. Through this search for ever-wider utilization of the myriad properties of petroleum had come outstanding pre-war advancements in products, in processes, in modern living. Imperial Oil Research Laboratories were now on a full war footing. Daily, out of countless experiments and tests came better ways of making new and improved products—faster. Petroleum, plus the technical skill of Imperial Oil research workers, solved many difficult problems that blocked the way to production goals . . . helped industry build improved, more effective weapons for the army and navy, and planes that flew higher, faster, longer than ever before . . . played an important role in helping to create new industries vital to Canada's war effort.

To-day, in its great effort to achieve final Victory, Canadian Industry can count on Imperial Oil Research for aid when the time comes to plan the better world of post-war . . . just as the men working the machines on the industrial front depend on Imperial lubricants to "keep things rolling" towards the goal of peace.

Debt Legislation

Upon every possible occasion and in every possible way, the Manning Social Credit Government has sought to safeguard the interests of farmers and other honest citizens from the unreasonable pressure of unpayable debt contracted through no fault of their own.

These concrete results have been achieved;

Homes and property were protected during the worst depression years.

Thousands of debts were equitably adjusted by agreement between creditor and debtor.

More than 41,000 people received direct assistance to adjust their debts.

More than 1,000 debtors were given free legal assistance in connection with foreclosure proceedings in court.

More than 1,000 soldiers received help under the Soldiers' Relief Act.

In addition, thousands of people have had their debts adjusted by using the free services of the Debtors' Assistance Board which was established in 1943 to advise and assist debtors with free legal advice.

This year, two important debt acts were added to the statutes. The Judicature Amendment Act provides protection to the farmer who cannot market his grain because of lack of elevator space.

The Wartime Moratorium Act extends the debt protection given to farmers in the armed services or to farmers who have wives, husbands, sons or daughters in the armed services.

This is good substantial government, of the people, by the people and for the people.

Alberta voters will remember it on August 8.

Please Get It Right

Canadians are interested and, in some respects, grateful when important United States periodicals devote space to the elucidation of Canadian problems and the description of Canadian institutions.

Canadians are neither interested nor grateful when these publications misrepresent our institutions or discuss them without a full knowledge of the facts.

The current issue of one of these magazines contains this statement;

"But right here we'd better explain the mechanics of Canadian government. Canada is an independent member of the British Commonwealth of Nations. Although its independence isn't as complete in such important matters as declaring war or making peace and in political and trade relations with the rest of the world as it would like to be, the nation's internal affairs are decided by a parliament."

There is no excuse for such gross misrepresentation. Canada is completely independent. She declares war of her own volition and makes peace of her own volition. She is completely mistress of her own political and trade relationships. She controls her own destiny as fully and completely as does the United States.

It is neighborly for the Americans to write about us in their magazines. But won't they please try to get it right?

Missionaries for Canada

While it is no conscious part of the war effort, Canada is getting limitless and world-wide advertising in these strenuous years. The British Commonwealth Air Training Plan has brought thousands of young men here from Britain and the Dominions, in addition to Poles, Norwegians and other Europeans. Large numbers of Americans have come here either to join the armed forces or for work in wartime enterprises.

In addition, the civilian world is sending its representatives in a steady stream. Many have come from Britain for their first sight of Canada. Australian newspapermen have toured the country. Latin America has sent delegations in large numbers, from Mexico, Cuba, Brazil, Argentina, Bolivia, Colombia, Venezuela and Chile.

There is another great movement, equally significant, and that has been the exchange of Canadian troops within our own country. Men from Central Canada have been posted to both coasts; westerners have gone to the Maritimes, and Maritimers have gone into the west.

Add all these factors together, these ambassadors of tourist travel from abroad, and this intermingling of Canadians themselves, and it makes a stimulating picture for post-war travel into, and within, Canada.

This country in its peak times gained as much as $300,000,000 a year from tourists. There was also an outgo, of $100,000,000 or more. The $300,000,000 is an export, helping to build up Canada's trade balance with the world, and every dollar saved for the country by promoting travel of Canadians with it, is as good as a dollar brought in from abroad. But interprovincial travel has a more priceless asset, for it promotes mutual understanding among our regional and racial elements.

These dreams of unlimited gasoline, of new cars, of unrestricted air and train travel, of a stream, a line and a wriggling trout are good for the soul in these times. Their realization will be good for all of us when the war is over. For if in the doing we can learn new gifts of winning and keeping friends, we shall have gained more than we can count in money.

Canada's Shipping

Mr. Joseph T. Kennedy, former U.S. ambassador to Britain, tells his country that it should not go out in the world as a leading post-war maritime nation. He says it should figure on a basis of 10,000,000 tons, aside from what the military needs for peacetime uses, and "scrap the rest of the fleet."

This echoes a question which is of equal concern to Canada, for Canada too has a maritime decision to make. The Government's policy, as lately enunciated by the Hon. C. D. Howe and the Hon. James A. MacKinnon, is to keep a coastal fleet, also an ocean going merchant fleet within limits, large enough to give Canada a voice in shipping matters, but not so large as to put Canada into worldwide competition with maritime nations.

Canada needs world trade after the war to sustain at least part of her wartime tempo. Her wartime exports are running at the rate of $3,000,000,000 a year, and last year her total foreign trade was $5,000,000,000—including exports, imports and services.

Canada now employs 34,500 men in shipbuilding, and will emerge from the war with a sizeable merchant fleet of probably 380 ocean-going ships, in addition to her lake, river and coastal fleet. Before the war she had only 37 ocean going ships, a total of 275,000 tons, compared with Britain's 20,000,000, Norway's 5,800,000 tons, United States' 11,000,000 tons.

Britain in peacetime counted on an income of £100,000,000—her coal exports by comparison were £37,000,000. Norway earned 18 per cent of her national peacetime income with her shipping, and during the war she has used this service as a major factor in paying for her war effort.

These are some of the facts behind the shipping problem for Canada and the United States. If this country maintains a peacetime merchant fleet to carry her goods abroad she will save the money for shipping service, but will have the problem of return tonnage. Also, she will deprive certain countries of one means for paying for goods which Canada hopes to sell them.

Elimination of "German Danger" First Peace Aim

What Can Be Done With The Nazis Is Biggest Question

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

It is announced that there will soon be another Cairo or Teheran, this time in Washington. America, Russia, and Britain will meet to discuss the European settlement and America, Britain and China to discuss the Far Eastern one.

The European conference, which is the more urgent, will have to deal with the settlement designed for Germany. At Teheran there was no agreement on this question. Since then, however, developments have occurred which make it possible dimly to discern the lineaments of the future peace.

Dorothy Thompson

In the east, Germany will lose territory to Poland. How much is probably not settled and certainly not known. East Prussia will certainly go either to Poland or be divided between Poland and Russia. In addition there is a discussion involving the transfer to the Poles of all German territory east of the River Oder and Silesia. That includes Silesia and most of Pomerania, with the great German cities of Breslau and Stettin.

When General de Gaulle was here he made a statement regarding French claims on Germany. That included unlimited occupation of the great industrial areas of the Rhineland and Ruhr, leaving the ultimate fate of the Rhineland in suspension. Other demands may be expected from the Netherlands and Belgium.

* * *

The question of the Kiel canal and Schleswig-Holstein is under discussion. The Danes, who occupy a unique position, having made, apparently, an Atlantic Charter for themselves, reject any territorial acquisitions whatsoever, though they have historical claims, since as late as 1864 this territory belonged to the Danish crown. But the Danes prefer to live in the future rather than the past. In 1919, they accepted only the northern tip of Schleswig, inhabited wholly by Danes, and refused any aggrandizement of territory populated by Germans. They have not changed their minds, despite all their sufferings.

The proposal made by Mr. Roosevelt at Teheran was to internationalize this territory, making it a free state, and the Kiel canal an international sea highway. International control here would obviously mean largely Russian control, and give the Soviets an outlet to the Atlantic.

It is further proposed to put western industrial Germany under "international authority."

There will still remain a large German state. It has not yet been decided whether this state will remain a unity or be partitioned into four or five separate successors to the Reich, such as Franconia (Bavaria and part of Saxony), middle Germany, Rhinelands, Prussia (Truncated), and Hanse.

It will be divided, for occupation purposes, between the victors. The original plan was for occupation by Russian, American, and British armies, each in its sphere. The new idea seems to be that each of the big three can delegate part or the whole of this function to allied armies—Poles, Dutch, French, etc.

* * *

This, then, represents the aim for which he are fighting the war in Europe. On such a settlement, called "the elimination of the German danger," rests the hope of little children in all nations today that they will not have to fight. On it rests the integrity of our cities, our visions of progress, prosperity, and that harmony which is peace. There is, therefore, no issue before us which demands such close analysis; none which requires more imagination and foresight. For everything in this world has consequences; every cause produces a certain effect. And it is, therefore, your duty and mine to consider the consequences of such a peace and the conditions necessary for maintaining it.

First, we must ask some questions. The questions and answers will take more space than this or another column affords.

What is proposed to be done with the population of the territories detached in the east? Wherever the eastern boundaries of Germany may be drawn, it is the Polish intention to evacuate the German population into the rest of the Reich. East Prussia alone, though thinly populated, contains 2,300,000 Germans who constitute practically its whole population.

At least another 3,000,000 live in the other territories being discussed. In pre-1939 Poland, in the so-called Corridor and Wartegau, there were, as I recall it, about 800,000 Germans, and since 1939 the Germans have evacuated from the Baltic states and southern Russia and settled in western Poland about 1,000,000 more. Therefore, this settlement would mean that from a minimum of 4,000,000 to a maximum of 6,000,000 Germans would be sent into the truncated Reich from Polish territory alone.

But this example, once given, is bound to be followed by other states. There are 3,500,000 Germans in Czechoslovakia. German colonies in all the southeastern European states — Hungary, Rumania, and Yugoslavia total at least a couple of millions more.

So it is proposed to send into the Reich, truncated of its most thinly settled territory, and with its industries taken out of Reich control, 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 extra population. The pre-1939 Reich contained 65,000,000. It is proposed, in a much smaller Reich, to increase this population to 75,000,000, more or less.

Let us consider the probable consequences of this.

Tremendous Cost of Current Victories

Younger Generation Has Shown Fine Qualities in Crisis

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — It's hard for many of us here to realize the cost of the victories that are rolling up. If it doesn't hit near us, then we read the good news of advances and triumphs and never see the list of casualties in a less conspicuous column.

When the reality is evoked in the loss of someone known and loved, then it suddenly strikes home. The other day it came to our neighborhood, which happens to be a peculiarly close and friendly neighborhood.

Word came that the boy next door had been killed in Italy. While he was several years older than our children, they all played together and were in and out of our place, and we knew him and felt a deep affection for him.

His name was Walter Shepard. He was a grand boy, friendly and eager and gay. He loved animals and was wonderful with them, training horses with patience and skill, and riding and jumping as though he'd been born on a horse.

Walt was in the infantry, a private first class. As he moved up the Italian peninsula, the letters he sent back home began to show a new maturity. He was learning so much so fast.

* * *

When he first got to Italy, the poverty of the people and the hardships they endured, particularly the women, shocked him. It was strange and foreign. He wrote that he had seen an old woman trying to carry a big trunk on her back. He wrote that most people had no shoes even though it was cold in the winter. To his father, who is an official in the government, he said:

"Papa, I wish you would try to do something for these people."

It was the natural reaction of a boy from a comfortable American home, a boy with a generous spirit, an American spirit. He had never known there were places in the world where old women carried trunks on their backs and where kids went without shoes in the winter.

On the day he was killed he wrote a letter to his family which reached them the day before they were notified by the war department of his death. I don't think Walt Shepard was given to expressing his inmost thoughts any more than other American boys with a natural reserve and a suspicion of sentiment. But he put into that letter the essense of what he had learned. He wrote:

"If I live I will come home knowing life is a very unstable thing, and that it really pays to lead the best life you know how while you are here. Men off the front, I believe, have much greater considerations for other men't wants, needs and desires than they did before they went up. They know how to pray and to live with God in their hearts."

* * *

For all his fineness and his intelligence, I don't think Walt was the exception. I think, in fact, he is the rule. At his death, at 21, he was part of a generation that has shown the most remarkable maturity and patience and forbearance in the face of the mistakes of their elders. To think there were people who doubted this generation! Who talked scornfully about jitterbugs!

In some ways we at home have done well, in others not so well. We have provided the weapons. We have not, most of us, learned the lessons of the men who have had to use the weapons.

Somehow I think we had better learn, and quickly, some of their Wisdom. We had better study that lesson for fear that we'll not speak their language when they come back. They're going to distrust the shoddy speech, the smooth words, the half promises, the double talk that all too often those of us who sit snugly—and sometimes even smugly—here at home are guilty of.

"If I live I will come home knowing life is a very unstable thing. . ."

Deaths reported by the Navy to date are 21,433 with 9,655 missing. Deaths reported by the Army are 37,237 and 39,311 missing. Those are not figures. Those are the boys next door, loved and cherished full of eager life and wonder and curiosity and compassion.

Pornography and Prudishness at Grips

Troubles of "Esquire" to Be Aired in American Courts

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The case of Esquire, the stag-line magazine which for 10 years has been presenting a picturized course of study of feminine architecture, accompanied by a vein of humor which might be defined as high-toned smut, has tweaked the self-interest of the American Newsapers' Assn. From supreme court, and possibly thereafter in Congress, a personal conflict over taste and morals between Frank Walker, the postmaster general and David Smart of Chicago, the publisher of Esquire, will be no mean scuffle between an eminent Catholic layman with rather priestly ideas and a mischievous person with a sexy obsession and a piece of chalk. It now becomes a heroic issue in which Mr. Smart's defenders are careful to say that, of course, they hardly ever glance at Esquire's nudes but, having done so, feel none the worse. It is making liars and sanctimonious prigs of publishers, editorial writers and others who doubtless do see Esquire often and casually enjoy it.

Westbrook Pegler

* * *

Mr. Walker could not have made more mistakes, or slillier, if he had let his opponent plan his course of conduct, so he seems reasonably sure of a licking in the long run. However, he might get even by causing the abolition or serious reduction of the public subsidy enjoyed by all national magazines and most small newspapers under the cheap, second-class mailing rate and privilege.

Being pure in heart, Mr. Walker cited Esquire on a charge of publishing dirty pictures and jokes and put Mr. Smart to great expense in a long proceeding in Washington. Before this, Arnold Gingrich, his editor, had for a period of 19 months made monthly trips from Chicago to submit his text and pictures to the post office department for censorship in advance. Mr. Smart says that during this time the department altered text arbitrarily, including even the text of verse, representing the heart's blood of poets.

Nevertheless, he submitted in the hope that Walker, a politician, having served his term in his highly political office, would move along as postmasters generally do.

* * *

When the hearing came on in Washington last fall, Esquire shipped in a large staff of scholars, literature and experts on the probable effect of garish nudes on the morals of small boys, to testify against the proposition that its pages were, in part, obscene. Mr. Walker's own board found in favor of Esquire but was reversed by Mr. Walker himself, who then waived the question of morals and evoked the mailing privilege on the ground that Esquire was not spreading information of a public character nor devoting itself to literature, science, the arts or some special industry.

Esquire appealed to the federal court in the District of Columbia, and Judge T. Whitfield up from Texas, sustained Walker's revocation of the mailing permit into an opinion largely irrelevant, inconsistent and incoherent.

Now the case goes to the Supreme court and meanwhile certain information is being discussed having to do with politics and other matters.

Smart says Walker is morally beholden to a high churchman sitting in Indiana where Walker is a trustee of Notre Dame University. He alleges also that his clergyman runs a literary blacklist, or index, in a publication of his own and Smart presents photostatic copies of correspondence indicating that the publication once solicited an ad for its own revenues from Esquire magazine under circumstances suggesting sales pressure.

This was the situation which Smart's attorney's had in mind when, in the course of the legal proceedings, they referred to certain unseen and mysterious influences operating in the case.

A Poet Is Invented

From the New York Times

Two Australian soldiers and poets have played a good joke on a literary magazine of their country. They put their heads together and invented a "poet of tremendous power" named Ern Malley. They foisted upon that innocent periodical poems which they call "Nonsensical Sentences". The first three lines of one masterpiece were cribbed "from an American report on the drainage of breeding grounds of mosquitoes". Such is the critical skill of the editors of that magazine. Perhaps they aren't much to be blamed, though. The Orphic or Cryptic school of poetry is now full of pupils. Some puzzled readers have even suspected these enigmatists of deliberately spoofing the public.

These literary hoaxes have flourished long and the genre has been well kept up in the United States. The late Edmund Pearson wrote and attributed to Jared Bean a book called "The Old Librarian's Almanack", supposed to be published in 1774. Newspapers, magazines, reviewers gobbled it eagerly and its genuineness was accepted even after its author had publicly denied it. In one of his books Mr. Pearson mentions some of his fellow-American hoaxers. Under the names of Emanuel Morgan and Anne Knish, Witter Bynner and Arthur D. Ficke invented the Spectrist School of Poetry. Their specimens were greeted heartily by yearners for and practisers of the New Poetry.

In 1918 William George Jordan and Richardson Wright published through the Authors' Club a skit on the passion for Russian literature. They celebrated the centenary of an imaginary "Feodor Vladimir Larrovitch; An Appreciation of His Life and Works". It included essays, a bibliography and "the picture of 'A Pressed Flower' from the grave of Larrovitch at Yalta, which is preserved and framed on the walls of the Authors' Club". Mr. Pearson didn't forget, and we hope our readers haven't forgotten Dr. Walter E. Trapock, F.E.S.S.E.U., the bold explorer who wrote "The Cruise of the Kawa", still one of the most precious books on the labrary shelves of the Chappell of Kidding University. This hoax was followed by the disappearance of the South Sea bubble. Let the good work go on.

Turkey

LONDON NEW STATESMAN

A series of political trials now taking place in the Turkish courts show that an attempt is being made to clear up a serious political candal.

A well-organized Turkish Fifth Column, with Istanbul as its centre and with its branches throughout the whole country (including the most remote places of East Anatolia) had been working systematically for Hitler. Its slogans were Pan-Turanism and Pan-Islam; they were also chauvinistic, anti-foreign, and anti-Jewish.

Its aim was a Fascist coup d'etat. Right under the noses of the Turkish political police this Nazi organization was able not only to form itself but also to work and agitate undisturbed for almost four years and keep closest contact with the Mohammedan S.S., whose leader is the notorious Mufti of Jerusalem.

What Hope Ahead for Italy?

By BEN MALKIN

ITALY, (Via Courier Air Mail): As the Allied armies penetrate deeper into Italy, one finds that the potentialities of the civilian population north of Rome for democratic self-government are no more reassuring than they were in the south. Here, despite the increased and, at times, very courageous activities of the partisans, the mass of people, from what can be discerned in the admittedly short time of a few weeks, are as politically apathetic, as socially without conscience, and as economically selfish as the folk in the south. It is only with feelings of deepest pessimism that one looks forward to he final departure of the Allied armies from Italy and to Italy's struggle in the post-war years for political emancipation.

The mass of the Italian people, the peasants, have through 100 centuries of plain feudalism and the most stringent exploitation become beasts of burden who ask only to be left alone that they may eat, may clothe themselves, may possess some shelter from the rain and cold. Politically they don't care what happens to Italy, for their past experience has been that no matter who seems to govern the country, they will pay. They appear now to be anti-fascist, but it is the well-considered opinion of Allied officials who have interviewed literally thousands of refugees that they are anti-fascist not out of principle, for they never knew democracy, but because Mussolini raised their taxes, conscripted their sons and husbands into the armed forces, enabled the great landowners, the loathsome Italian aristocrats who were able to maintain homes in half the capitals of Europe, to exploit them more freely than ever.

Nor do the activities of Allied troops help to persuade the peasant that the people of the western democracies are any better than the Germans or their own fascists, and in many districts the peasants would welcome the departure of our soldiers.

The majority of fighting men in Italy are British, French and Polish. They know, of course, that Italy is out of the war, that officially she is a co-belligerent with the Allies, that she even ha sa brigade fighting, and fighting well, with the Eighth Army. But the Poles, the Pollus, the Tommies, cannot forget, no matter how much their leaders might try to make them do so, that Italy declared war on them in June, 1940, when defeat seemed so very close; that Italian aviators begged for the honor of bombing practically defenceless London; that Italian pilots, when they bombed the Greek island of Corfu, dropped mean little notes calling on the civilian population to be sure to carry their umbrellas with them at all times if they desired protection from Italian bombs; that Italian soldiers treated Tommies meanly and unchivalrously when they made them prisoners of war in Africa.

Another fact that must be considered is that the Allies are fighting in Italy primarily to destroy the Germans here, not to liberate anybody. The Allied armies permit no obstacle to bar the way to this purpose. And so vast quantities of food are imported into the country and, quite rightly, the great bulk of it goes to the troops, not to the civilian population, for shipping facilities are limited, and if the civilian population were to be properly fed, the troops might well suffer.

However, for some obscure reason, the idea has spread that the Allies should feed the civilian population much better than they now do, despite the limited ocean tonnage available, despite the need to feed the troops here first. The peasants feel the Allies have not implemented the promises implicit in the Atlantic Charter, and that this is just another betrayal.

However, dim as the hope may be of winning the Italian peasant over to the support of a democratic government, the case of the Italian aristocrat is even more hopeless.

* * *

Allied troops did not really come in contact with Italy's landed aristocracy and wealthy playboys and their mistresses until Rome fell. When they did make this contact their disgust was infinite. These aristocrats, accustomed all their lives to having things done for them, seemed to think the Allied troops had suffered the most terrible privations, had seen so many of their comrades die, just so that a contessa might have a little more food to put into her aristocratic little belly. And what was a British Tommy to think when he saw silks and jewels of great price in the shop windows, and the smooth Roman ladies clad in raiment finer than any English girl has seen in the past four years? His attitude to the Roman will be cool, so say the least.

What will be the attitude of the Canadian soldier, who was asked by a Roman woman of the social upper crust, shortly after the occupation of the city, what Cassino looked like. Old soldiers who fought in Ypres in the last war will know what Cassino looks like. The Canadian told her what Cassino was like. "Ah, well." she said, "it was always a smelly little place."

To hope that such people can have anything to contribute to the Bonomi government's attempts to restore democracy in Italy is not possible. All they want is that their wealth be left intact, and that there be sufficient policemen around to ensure that the peasants will continue to permit themselves to be exploited without active protest.

* * *

Only among the industrial workers, it appears would there be any hope after the war of achieving some political progress in Italy. The vast majority of partisans derive from the working class. In the north, in cities like Milan and Turin, they have shown sufficient enlightenment and courage to organize under central political authority, generally Communist or Socialist led, so as to offer intelligent and effective resistance to the Germans and to their own fasists. They have given valuable aid to Allied troops, often at great risk to themselves.

If, after the war, the partisans are prepared to abandon their direct methods and assist in the peaceful development of Italy towards political democracy and a wider distribution of the country's wealth, then they, even if they are in a minority in Italy, nevertheless have sufficient numbers to swing the country into making a real contribution to the reconstruction of post-war Europe. But they will do this only if the Bonomi government, or whatever government replaces it, is prepared to carry out great economic and social reforms. If this is not done by parliamentary methods, then the only alternatives that this correspondent can see in Italy is either revolution or a return to fascism to repress such a revolution.

"Oh pardon me—I thought you two had met, both being in the army! Colonel Jones, meet Colonel Smith!"

Luxury Imports Are Permitted After August 1

OTTAWA, July 31—(CP)—Canada goes back into the United States luxury market Aug. 1—provided there are luxuries to buy. Aug. 1 is the date for the removal of restriction which since 1940 have banned the import of a wide range of luxury goods from the United States and other non-sterling countries, but the word in official circles here is that it won't mean much to Canadians because most luxury items just don't exist anyway.

Meantime, the prices board has taken steps to ensure that Canada's allocation of essential textiles from the United States will not be reduced by non-essential imports after the restriction are lifted.

NO IMPORT PERMITS

The board has announced that for the present no import permits will be granted for cotton clothing, household textile products, vegetable and wool clothing, knitted garments and all other knitted goods except fabric more than 12 inches wide.

The board explained that this policy of import permit control will not mean a reduction in textile products available to Canadians. More essential yarns and fabrics will be imported and the "maximum possible supply" of necessary clothing and textile products will be placed on the market. In this way Canada's limited quota of textiles will be filled to meet pressing needs.

The board also said that other articles for which no import permits will be granted include gloves and mitts; handkerchiefs of cotton, flax or other vegetable fibres; and silk and artificial silk clothing.

Britons Realize Fight Is "Tough"

By DOUGLAS AMARON

LONDON, July 31.—(CP)—The enthusiasm of the average Briton about the progress of the invasion, which has been going up and down like an umbrella in April, shot up anew yesterday as the first word of the Caumont advance was received.

But mixed with elation over the fact that British troops once more are on the move was a good deal of caution. By this time, after previous advances that slowed down, it is realized by the public that the Germans in Normandy are tough scrappers with plenty of men and equipment.

The advance, naturally, made headlines in the Sunday press but most papers confined themselves to factual reports of the fighting, steering clear of optimistic "breakthrough" editorials that marked the start of the invasion and the following forward moves.

The general attitude seemed to be "wait and see," tempered with the sober realization that the Germans are putting up a last-ditch fight that will make progress both slow and costly.

Troops Will Get 48 Hours Leave For Quebec Vote

OTTAWA, July 31 — (CP) — A maximum of 48 hours' leave will be granted army personnel in Quebec, Aug. 8 to vote in the Quebec provincial election, defence headquarters announced yesterday.

No additional travelling time will be granted and leave will be given only to personnel who can reach their polling stations and return to their stations within 48 hours and only when application, accompanied by proof that the soldier is on a proper voters' list, is tendered.

Soldiers registered as voters in Quebec but stationed outside the province will be able to vote in the Quebec election provided they can reach their polling stations and return to their camps within 48 hours, a defence department spokesman said.

Raps Comparison Of Allied Gains

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, July 31—(AP)—A high officer in Gen. Eisenhower's command spoke out Saturday against what he said was a tendency of military writers—both British and American—to compare gains made by the British and American armies in the Normandy campaign.

"There is no nationality over there," this general told newsmen attached to the supreme command. "We are all Allied soldiers. We have been very much surprised to note the tendency to compare gains made by troops under Lt. Gen. Sir Miles Christopher Dempsey and Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley.

"We do not gauge the success of an operation by the size of the advance made. Any general who trades men for ground—if it is just to expand—is a damn fool."

Nazis Take Troops From Yugoslavia

BARI, Italy, July 31.—(AP)—Germany has withdrawn nearly all first-line troops from Yugoslavia and is reshuffling the remainder to mask new northward movements, a reliable report here said yesterday. Seventeen German divisions were in the country July 1, but only 10 remain now—all but one of them second-rate units—and the force now opposing Marshal Tito's Yugoslav Partisans by the most liberal estimate is less than 350,000 men, the report said.

Report on Radio Not Unanimous

OTTAWA, July 31—(CP)—Douglas G. Ross, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto St. Paul's, said in the Commons Saturday that the report of the parliamentary radio committee of which he is a member was not unanimous, as had been reported in the press, "for certain portions of it were unacceptable to some members of the committee."

(In its summary of the committee report when it was tabled Thursday, The Canadian Press erroneously stated that the report was unanimous.)

Mr. Ross did not elaborate on his Commons statement, but later, approached in the lobby, made this statement:

"The report was adopted at a committee meeting which was held in camera and I don't feel justified in speaking now but I will say this that I will speak on the portions I disagree with when the radio resolution comes before the house."

Brave Shore Batteries

Daring Rescue in Channel By Canuck Torpedo Boats

OTTAWA, July 31.—(CP)—The navy told last night how two Canadian motor torpedo boats, in a dramatic display of team work, braved heavy shelling from enemy shore batteries in the English Channel to remove the crew of a third Canadian M.T.B. which had been hit, and take the craft in tow to a safe beaching point.

The rescued boat, the lead boat in the flotilla, was commanded by Lt.-Cmdr. C. A. (Tony) Law of Quebec and Toronto, the flotilla commanding officer.

The flotilla was sweeping a few miles off the enemy coast when shore batteries located their position and began straddling them. A direct hit by a six-inch shell blew a hole in the engine room of Law's boat, killing two ratings, injuring one and leaving the boat sinking.

CALGARIAN KILLED

The two men killed were PO. Motor Mechanic Charles Eawson of Calgary and Stoker John McMahon of Melford, Sask. Stoker Gilbert Anderson of Frontier, Sask., suffered only very slight shrapnel wounds.

When Law's boat was hit, the two other boats, commanded by Ioris and California, and Lieut. Joe Adam of Vancouver, sped to the aid of the disabled craft just as the order was given to abandon ship.

Marshall brought the bow of his boat to the bow of the stricken MTB while the stern was filling with water and settling fast. The crew passed safely from bow to bow while four remained to attach a tow line. Adam swept up and down between the two boats and the short line laying a heavy smoke screen and dodging more shells from the coast. He kept laying a screen until Marshall had all the crew off and the boat in tow.

Tenants of Rooms Given Protection Against Evictions

OTTAWA, July 31.—(CP)—The prices board announced last night an order, effective today, extending to tenants or rooms or parts of houses the same protection from moving before May 1, 1945, as now is enjoyed by "well-behaved" tenants of houses, apartments and flats who are not now under notice to vacate.

The order, though it extends to tenants of shared cacommodation, does not cover boarders.

Tenants who do not pay their rent or who break their agreements are not given the protection of the order, and, as in peacetime, can be put out by order of the provincial courts.

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP)—Benito Mussolini was 61 Saturday and the Berlin radio, broadcasting a dispatch from his Italian headquarters, said he celebrated with an early morning bicycle ride through the park of his mansion and subsequently played tennis. Claims Monopolies Worst in Quebec

QUEBEC, July 31.—(CP)—In no province of Canada is the grip of monopolies so tight as in Quebec, and in no province of Canada, perhaps, have "subservient governments bartered away the rich natural resources of the people with so lavish a hand," M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said in an address prepared for delivery at a public meeting here last night.

"The people of Quebec are not masters in their own house; monopolies control their economy and private interests own and despoil their rich resources," he added.

Hopeful signs were, however, abroad in the province, said Mr. Coldwell, "Co-operative organizations, especially the credit unions, are taking hold, and the lusty, unshakeable democratic trade union movement has received a great impetus from the war."

Both trade union and co-operative associations are "stepping stones toward and keystones of the better co-operative society to come."

In an address prepared for delivery at an afternoon meeting, Mr. Coldwell said the CCF had entered a large number of candidates in the Quebec provincial election because it "wanted to bring the message of the plain people of Canada to our French-speaking compatriots in the province of Quebec."

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW

By Jack DeLong

RAIN made a mess of Senior Baseball over the week-end, with one scheduled contest and a postponed game washed out. A game was started Sunday but it was a great mistake. The Kavanaugh Cup tennis challenge match between a Glenora team and the defending pair of Alf. Blyth and George Docherty, billed Saturday at the Civil Service courts also lost a decision to the weatherman.

Golfers, as you would expect from exponents of a game that originated in the rugged country of Northern Scotland, proved a more hardy lot than the baseballers and the tennis players, play proceeding according to schedule Saturday in the Mayfair and Municipal Club championships. But even the golfers had to knock off Sunday.

George W. Schilling, presiding steward and racing secretary, and the veteran Jim Donovan, renowned starter of horse races, arrived in Edmonton over the week-end from Saskatoon. The officials will get some badly needed rest here this week prior to the opening of the 10-day race meeting at the Edmonton Exhibition track next Saturday.

Steward Schilling was pounding the ear when we called his hotel Sunday evening but emerged from dreamland long enough to predict a record-breaking meet in Edmonton.

Records for attendance have been shattered all over the west this season, Mr. Schilling states. Play through the mutuels has also touched some new high marks. Edmonton, always was one of the best racing towns in Western Canada, and it is almost certain that some new records will be hung up here during the forthcoming race meet.

DAMON RUNYON RECOVERS

WHILE on the subject of horse racing, Edmontonians who have enjoyed Damon Runyon's great stories about the race track for years, will be pleased to learn that Runyon is now recovering from a serious illness, during which he was almost "scratched" off the entry list in the great derby of life.

We had occasion to write the famous author some weeks ago. In his reply, Runyon wrote in part:

"I just got out of the hospital. I had a long seige and a close call."

Although the weather has not been conducive of thoughts on hockey and other winter sport, many Edmonton fans are taking hopeful glances in the direction of the arena ever since the recent announcement concerning the vacating of the exhibition grounds by No. 3 RCAF "M" Depot, quartered there sisnce early in the war.

Beyond the bare announcement that the air force would utilize the grounds and buildings for other purposes, nothing definite has come from official sources concerning future use of the site.

It seems also that the grounds will pass to jurisdiction of the newly-formed Northwest Air Command here. Hockeyists and fans of the great ice game hereabouts, virtually starved for the favorite winter sport for the past three years, are hoping that the arena building, used as a drill hall by the "M" Depot, will again be available for hockey. It would be nice at that to watch a hockey game with a roof over your head once again, would it not?

First Major Stake Victory

War Knight Scores Upset In Winning Rich Arlington

CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP)—Unheralded War Knight's triumph in the $56,200 Arlington Handicap Saturday gave the west coast undisputed "upset" honors in the rich Arlington season which closes Thursday.

As a matter of fact, in galloping to the first major stake victory of his career, the four-year-old War Knight upset the meet's prize upsetter, Washington-bred Georgie Drum.

The black colt, owned by Miss Ethel Hill, one of Hollywood's ranking scenario writers, beat Allen Drumheller's Georgie Drum by a neck to collect a $37,850 winner's share of the purse, three times as much as War Knight previously had won altogether.

As a three-year-old, War Knight won the California Derby at Bay Meadows last year, and his record prior to the handicap was two victories, three seconds and four thirds in 10 starts for total earnings of $12,920. War Knight is scheduled to make his sixth stsart of the meeting in Wednesday's $15,000 added Great Western Handicap.

Georgie Drum was favored Saturday, but only because he amazed turfdom less than a month ago by galloping off with the $50,000 added Stars and Stripes Handicap here.

War Knight, cleverly ridden by veteran Charley Corbett, came from well behind in the stretch to outlast Georgie Drum and equal the track mile and a quarter record of 2:02. Daily Trouble was third in a disappointingly small field of six. War Knight paid $16.20 and $7.20, while Georgie Drum returned $3.80. There was no show betting.

Pensive, Kentucky Derby-Preakness winner, was scratched at the last minute because, trainer Ben Jones said, the Calumet Farm money-winning star was unsound and would have tough going on Saturday's hard track.

Fastball Games Set for Tonight

The second game of the best of three northern Alberta senior girls' fastball playoff between Walk-Rite "A" and Army and Navy Pats is scheduled for the second half of the doubleheader at Kingsway Park tonight. Walk-Rite "B" are billed to meet C.P. Airlines in the curtain raiser.

The grounds were still wet early today, and it was doubtful if the games would be played. If the playoff clash is washed out, it will be played as the preliminary on Tuesday night.

The second game Tuesday will bring together Moose and Navy in the second of the best of three senior men's series.

All playoff games over the week-end were washed out.

Jamaica Record To First Fiddle

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP)—First Fiddle came from off the pace in the stretch to win the $50,000 Butler Handicap in track record time of 1:56 at Jamaica Saturday.

With Johnny Longden, former Calgary boy, handling the reins despite a badly sprained instep, the five-year-old grey from Mrs. Ed Mulrenan's Stable beat Alex Barth from the Millbrook Stable in a photo finish. William Ziegler, Jr.'s, Wait a Bit trailed a length and one-half in third place as Mrs. Payne Whitney's entry of Four Freedoms and Stir Up wound up fourth and fifth, respectively.

Mayfair Golf Event Enters Semi-Finals

Final Match Scheduled for Next Sunday

Play in the Mayfair Golf and Country Club championship competition narrowed down to the semi-finals over the week-end when three matches were run off and one went by default. The semi-finals will be played during the week and the final is billed for next Sunday.

The linksmen who were successful in entering the semi-final stage were Bill Hoar, Andy Eagle, W. C. Broadfoot and C. A. "Skiff" Scharf, last season's champ of the Municipal Club.

The games were played in a steady rain and although the scores for match play were far from outstanding, they were fair considering the conditions.

Andy Eagle made the best recovery in his match against W. C. Richards to finish one up on the 18th green. He yielded the first four holes to Richards and then came back to wipe out the deficit.

Bill Hoar won his game from A. J. "Red" Hopps by the widest margin, finishing on the 15th hole to win four and three.

W. C. Broadfoot eliminated D. B. Kilburn in the other game that was played during the week and while "Skiff" Scharf entered the other semi-final berth by default.

The tourney is a little behind schedule, the semi-finals originally billed for yesterday, but rain interrupted play. The semi-finals will be played during the week so that the final, which will only be an 18 hole affair, may be held next Sunday.

Racing Starts Here Saturday

400 Horses Expected for Meet

Close to 400 horses are expected to be on hand for Edmonton's 10-day racing meet which opens at the exhibition grounds on Saturday, August 5, according to an official of the prairie racing circuit.

A total of 280 horses that raced in the three week western Canada circuit were shipped from Saskatoon Sunday to prepare for the meet and others are expected from Vancouver, Calgary and Winnipeg.

Presiding steward and racing secretary, George W. Schilling, arrived in Edmonton Sunday accompained by starter Jim Donovan. Other officials were expected to arrive early today.

Assistant manager Charles F. Roe has been in the city for some days now completing arrangements for Saturday's opening. Edmonton will see twilight racing for the first time, beginning at five o'clock in the afternoon.

On the two Saturdays of the meeting, the first race will go to the post at 2.30 p.m.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By SYD THOMAS

TORONTO, July 31. — (CP) — Swimmers and the swim game in Vancouver are poorer for the loss of Percy Norman, known internationally for his efforts in training and developing young swimmers. Percy, because of the hectic pace of his private business, had to resign as coach of the Vancouver Swimming Club, but it's a cinch he still retains a feverish interest in all things natatorial.

During his carrer on the coast, Norman developed such champions as Joan Langdon — voted the Dominion's outstanding athlete in 1942 and 1943—Phyllis Dewar and Noel Oxenbury, as well as springboard acrobats Ilka Lynda Adams and George Athans. Seven Vancouver splashers made a good showing at the 1936 Olympics, due mainly to Norman's coaching.

He believed in getting 'em young too, and he made a valiant attempt to have swimming introduced as part of the curriculum in all Vancouver schools, but the trustees weren't quite so far-seeing as he was.

WESTERN RELIC:

The old Merchants' Casualty trophy, competed for by teams of the old Western Canada Professional Hockey League between 1923 and 1933, is being donated to the Hockey Hall of Fame at Kingston, Ont. It has been in the trophy room of Gordon (Duke) Keats, one of the puck experts who helped bring the trophy to Edmonton. Jack Delong, holiday conductor of The Edmonton Bulletin sport column, says Duke got the trophy from an admirer, who found it in an Edmonton store after it had been lost several years, and presented it to the centre ice star.

HERE AND THERE:

Possibility that baseball players might be organized into unions is being discussed, but nothing much has been done. Attempts have been made before, points out J. P. Fitzgerald in the Toronto Telegram, but their movers have been drawn from the ranks of players and have always petered out when the owners applied the pressure. . . . Johnny Greco weighed 178 pounds when he first came out of the army, and shaved off 30 pounds before his first fight. He blames his army weight on the 10 hours of sleep he used to get each night. . . . Myrtle Cook, now a sport columnist on the Montreal Star, is working on memoirs of her Olympic days.

INCIDENTALLY:

After years of developing Weds, the race track at Buctouche, N.B., once one of the important centres of equestrian goings-on in the Maritimes, is being scuffed off and put back to use. Buctouche at one time used to draw crowds like a minor world's series, but that's all in the past.

Scotty Rankin, one-time Canadian flash at the Olympic and British Empire games, still has plenty of the old zip left in his feet. Scotty broke another record the other day—this time an army mark. Now a corporal in the RCAF, Scotty trucked over a tough obstacle course at Toronto's Manning Depot in just three minutes and 53 seconds. Second in the grind was Cpl. D. E. Stewart, former Canadian cycling champion—and he did the course without benefit of his wheel. Flight Sgt. J. H. Diamond, a champion light-heavyweight boxer, came third.

Betting Record On Closing Day Saskatoon Races

By LOU DAVIES

SASKATOON, Sask., July 31. — Racing on the Western Canada fairs came to a conclusion Saturday afternoon when bettors set a new Hub City record by pouring over $70,000 through the mutuels and created still a new betting high for the six day fair meeting with a total of $301,000.

A good horse, Tommy Morrison's Some Do, won the featured mile and three furlongs Hettle Memorial Handicap in a thrilling finish over Youville. The winner stamped himself as just about the best route runner on the circuit by forcing the pace set by Bombshell and taking the lead through the final quarter and holding Youville safe in the stretch drive. Bombshell held on fairly well to be third.

Ben Berrill surprised in the secondary feature by coming from far back to beat Gay Paris and Sky Grey by a length. The entire field was closely bunched for the greater part of the seven furlongs.

After Wee Car had won easily in the first to pay only $2.90 straight a surprising daily double of $89.20 came about when Polly Gower was up in the final strides to beat the one to two favorite, Sir Mortimer. The latter looked to be a certain winner when three lengths in front entering the home stretch. Polly Gower paid $43.95, the top win price of the meeting.

Valedah Craig had little trouble coming off the pace set by Sum Tam in the seventh to win by five lengths. Ooimax came fast in the stretch to outfinish Sum Tam and the Quinella was worth $22.00. There will be a lull in the prairie racing scene until Saturday when a ten day meeting will open at Edmonton.

Has Fine Par Round of 72

Vickers Heads Qualifiers In Municipal Club Golf

Tommy Vickers shot par golf over a soggy fairway to top the field in the qualifying round of the Municipal Golf Club annual championships, turning in a neat 72 to head the qualifiers in the championship flight. The qualifying round was of 18 holes.

His card:

Out	535 354 343—35
In	453 544 534—37—72

Runner-up to Vickers was Vern Mohs and Jack Halliday who tied for second place in the championship flight with 74.

Leo LeClair, youngster who annexed the junior city golf championship last week, was third with a nice 77.

Vickers now meets E. Turvey, who just qualified Sunday with an 84, in the first round of the championship flight play. All first rounds are to be completed by next Friday.

Second rounds are to be completed by August 6; semi-finals by August 12 and the finals by August 13. C. A. Scharf, now of Mayfair Club, won the Municipal Club championship last year.

Vickers was technically "correct" in achieving his par, making the stipulated 35 going out and taking 37 to come home.

Considering the wet course he shot a remarkably fine round of golf and so did the others who got in the charmed circle of qualifiers.

Following are the scores in the qualifying round, with 84 or better to qualify and two 84's not making the championship flight:

T. Vickers 72, V. R. Mohs 74, J. Halliday 74, Leo LeClair 77, J. Herron 78, J. Meldrum 80, R. T. Morrow 80, W. Ewenson Sr. 81, R. Jones 81, G. Edwards 82, W. Ewenson Jr. 83, E. Diggens 84, M. McCallum 84, Jack McCallum 84, E. Turvey 84.

Following is the draw for flights to be played this week, with the first player named responsible for arranging the match in each case:

T. Vickers vs. E. Turvey, R. Jones vs. W. Ewenson Sr., J. Herron vs. J. A. Morgan, E. Diggens vs. L. LeClair, J. Halliday vs. Mac McCallum, W. Ewenson Jr. vs. J. Meldrum, R. Morrow vs. G. Edwards, Jack McCallum vs. V. R. Mohs.

C. Croft vs. Pat McMillan, I. Bond vs. E. Robinson, K. Higham vs. E. Kirkwood, W. McCormack vs. D. A. Dudley, G. Barker vs. R. Muter, E. Wakefield vs. N. Forrest, K. Park vs. F. Brissette, A. Boyce vs. A. Groves.

SECOND FLIGHT

F. Elliot vs. G. F. Neilson, H. Alverson vs. Bud Cowan, R. M. Frame vs. R. Armstrong, J. K. Lowry vs. D. Sinclair, J. B. Smith vs. B. Collins, Ben Smith vs. Tom Pink, H. W. Rogers vs. J. Finlay, C. Carpenter vs. the winner of J. S. McCallum vs. J. McKernan.

Weather Halts Baseball Game

Yesterday's city senior baseball league game was halted after four and one-half innings of play by rain. The Dodgers were leading over the Signals 7-3, but the entire game was washed out in addition to some nice efforts.

Dave Brockie's home run over the right field fence with two aboard was a nice hit, but the blow isn't worth anything as far as the records are concerned, since the clash wasn't a full game.

Saturday night's game between Signals and Yanks was also postponed. Next fixture at Renfrew Park will be Tuesday night when Arrows and Dodgers clash, commencing at the new time of 6:45 o'clock.

Clear Lake Golf

WASAGAMING, Man., July 31.—(CP)—George Ruttan of Hamiota Man., won the Clear Lake seniors golf tournament Saturday at the Riding Mountain National Park course, defeating Dr. H. O. McDiarmid of Brandon, Man., 2 and 1, in a final match.

NEW YORK, July 31.—A whirl on the Sports-Go-Round: Br'er Branch Rickey, the ol' fox of Flatbush is convinced that what the Brooklyn Dodger fans want most is the pitter-patter of little feet thundering across the acres of Ebbets Field. . . . His latest acquisition is 16-year-old Tom Brown, (not of Oxford fame) supposedly a flashy shortstop. . . . When he moves in at the position he will be the 11th player to occupy that post this season.

Dodger fans aren't entirely sold on the Rickey bobby sox movement which has brought nearly a dozen 'teen aged kids into the lineup this far. . . . Their night game attendance hit an all time low of 9,072 in a game against the Cubs.

There are about as many Barrett's in baseball this year as there were on Wimpole Street, but the one who throws the box score boys into a high degree of confusion is the Phillies' pitcher. . . . For the social security and selective service crowd he is Tracey S. Barrett, so named at birth.

To the fans he is Dick or Kewpie and he autographs programs as Richard Oliver Barrett. . . . "Many Names" Barrett explains it thus. . . . As a semi-pro pitcher he was known as Dick Oliver the twilight twister. . . . The Kewpie pseudonym comes from his size, 5 feet 9 inches. . . . The other baseball Barretts are Johnny, the Pirate outfielder, Francis (Red), the Red Sox pitcher and Charley (Red) the Braves' Pitcher.

Scout Johnny Nee of the Yankees has dispatched a glowing report on Pete Gray, the remarkable one-armed outfielder of the Memphis Chicks to president Ed Barrow and the Polish lad from the Pennsylvania coal country may wind up with the Bronx Bombers.

Decidedly opposed to anything unorthodox in baseball, Barrow is about convinced that Gray can become a big leaguer despite his tremendous handicap. . . . He would fit in nicely in the big city where he acquired many friends as a semi-pro star at Erasmus Field in Brooklyn.

One fracas we don't to miss will be after next football season when the new and well heeled U-S pro football league begins to bid for college players, who annually would fall in the established draft of the National Pro League. . . The new crew, headed by Roland D. Payne, Pittsburgh industrialist, apparently is set to do some "sky is the limit" buying of star.

There certainly wasn't anything going on in the ring to remind us of it, but the thought occurred during the Lee Q. Murray-Turkey Thompson fiasco at the Garden Friday night that it was the eve of the third anniversary of Freddie Cochrane's memorable world championship victory over Fritzie Zivic for the welterweight title at Newark on July 29, 134-. . . . Then one week later Freddie traded his trunks for navy blue without ever defending the title. . . . Now, a chief specialist, he is at an amphibious base at Solomons Island.

Football player Bob Steuber, who will have more letters than a college president when he finishes his collegiate navy career, has added a track numeral from Marquette to his collection. . . . Since leaving the Missouri Tigers, he has played at Depauw, Iowa pre-flight and Marquette. . . . He is an air cadet.

Rossington Wins Alberta Beach Baseball Tourney

Rossington was awarded the trophy for standing highest in the annual Alberta Beach baseball tournament before rain brought the competition to a halt at the resort Sunday afternoon.

Prize money was divided between three other clubs, Namao, Onoway and Dodds.

The final game would have been between Rossington and the winner of the Namao-Dodds game that had to be called in the fourth with Namao leading 4-1.

The game in which Rossington edged out Onoway 6-5 was a fine contest all the way.

Moran, who finished the game on the mound for Onoway, struck out 13 batters in five innings.

Results of other games were:

Rossington beat Riviere Qui Barre 6-1. Onoway beat Vimy 5-0. Dodds beat Horsehill 4-0.

In addition to the baseball games there was a fine program of races and other sports.

Urge Dominion, Provinces Study Health Scheme

OTTAWA, July 31.—(CP)—The Commons committee on social security recommended Saturday that a draft national health insurance bill which it has been studying for several months be referred to the forthcoming dominion-provincial conference.

The recommendation was contained in a committee report tabled in the Commons by Hon. Cyrus MacMillan, committee chairman.

The draft bill, drawn up by health department officials, was slightly amended by the committee which did not approve clauses dealing with financial arrangements between the Dominion and provincial governments.

The original draft bill had recommended that every adult in Canada contribute $12 annually toward the health insurance plan, and that adults in the income tax brackets pay an additional contribution through income tax.

This recommendation and others dealing with financial arrangements were not approved by the committee.

Approved by the committee were sections of the bill calling for federal grants to aid crippled children to help control the spread of tuberculosis and venereal diseases and for the care and prevention of mental diseases.

EXTEND INSURANCE

The committee also recommended that "when possible, consideration be given to the extension of unemployment insurance, sickness cash benefits, funeral benefits and other measures which will help to provide protection against old age, illness and economic misfortune."

Establishment of greater co-ordination between the federal and provincial governments was urged so that the over-lapping or duplication of existing social welfare measures could be eliminated.

Zoot-Suiters, Seamen Clash At Vancouver

VANCOUVER, July 31—(CP)—A mob numbering approximately 1,000 civilians, merchant seamen and partisans of both sides, engaged in a brief rough-and-tumble fight in front of a downtown theatre here last night, but civilian and military police succeeded in quelling the disturbance before any of the participants suffered serious injury.

Five squad cars of civilian police and all available military and naval police were called out to deal with the riot which started with jostlings in a theatre queue.

The melee followed less than 24 hours after police had been called out to deal with a fight at a nearby intersection where civilians described by officers as "zoot-suiters" had battled briefly with merchant mariners in front of a corner cafe. Counting the gallery, the earlier mob was said to number more than 200 persons.

MINOR INJURIES

No arrests were made at either of the incidents, but minor injuries were suffered in both fights from flying fists and feet. Both spectators and participants were scattered by police batons in the second outbreak.

Police said trouble had been brewing for a week since a merchant seaman had allegedly been knocked unconscious in a row with one of the zoot-suit devotees of exaggerated "drape-shape" jackets, high-drape "stuff-cuff" trousers and flowing haircuts.

Secret Weapon Used by Allies Against Japs

By CLINTON GREEN

ABOARD EXPEDITIONARY FLAGSHIP OFF TINIAN, Marianas Islands, July 31.—One of the most fearful instruments of death from the Allied arsenal of secret weapons is aiding immeasurably in the whirlwind conquest of Tinian Island which saw American marines storm into Tinian town before darkness fell last night.

Effectiveness of the secret weapon has been proved. It is truly fearful and it is doubtful whether any human being within 100 feet of its action would be able to live.

First use of the weapon came several days ago, but because of security reasons it is impossible even to hint at its construction or its manner of use.

Present Battle Is Being Waged Against Evil

The Rev. A. Lorne MacKay, guest preacher from Vancouver Heights Presbyterian church, Vancouver, said Sunday morning in First Presbyterian church the struggle raging in the world today is not just a battle of man against man, but is a battle between Christianity and the forces of evil.

Although it is highly unlikely that the dictator nations will win the war, he said, if they should, the cause of true religion would be set back 1,000 years, but even if the democracies win, that fact alone will not establish a Christian world. We must wage an even greater battle against the forces of evil and the spirit of secularism that prevails in society today," he said.

Mr. MacKay said when the Nazis came to power in Germany more than 10 years ago, they offered the churches increased prestige and membership, greater social and political influence, if they would support the Nazi regime.

Many of them failed to recognize the hidden temptation in that offer. Only one Christian church, known now as the Confessional church, resolutely refused to surrender to the new order.

As a result its members suffered persecution and martyrdom but that church, to its eternal glory, stood up for the word of God and has become the church of God.

BULWARK OF FREEDOM

The church has always been the bulwark of freedom, said Mr. MacKay. Although freedom-loving people in Germany had first looked to the universities, and then to their great newspapers to defend their freedom against Nazi regime the only body that had dared stand up for intellectual truth and morality had come from the church. If the German churches had only presented a united front then, he declared "how different might have been the history of these past four or five years. We might not be involved now in a world struggle. If the people were to be able to face the world of tomorrow they must apply the laws of Christian teaching," he said.

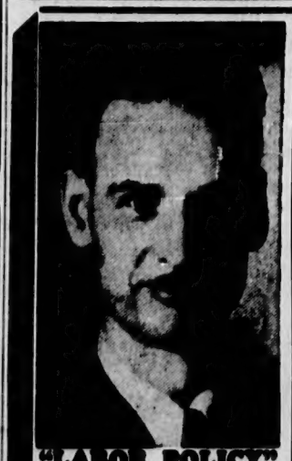

The spirit of secularism was prevailing increasingly in the modern world, he said. Man, more and more was concentrating all his efforts and desires on himself, turning away from God. Impressed by the wonders of science he was content to let science replace religion. He was taking freedom of worship as freedom not to worship.

In Training

PO. Vincent T. Horncastle, RCAF, only son of Capt. Mennell Horncastle and Mrs. Horncastle of 9624 88 avenue, is taking operational training at the Pacific coast. He recently received his wings and commission at Portage la Prairie, Man., where he was graduated with the highest honors and won a gold identification bracelet.

Alaskan Wing Is Elevated to Division Status

Elevation of the Alaskan Wing, Air Transport Command, USAAF, to a division as from July 26, was announced from ATC headquarters at Washington, according to a story in the Air Base Beacon. Brig.-Gen. Dale V. Gaffney remains in command of the division which is the highest unit in ATC, excluding headquarters in Washington.

A Division in the U.S. army may be commanded by a major-general, and may be comprised of one or more wings.

The elevation brought no changes in personnel at headquarters nor in the borders of the command but it resulted in a few changes of titles. Col. Harry J. Kieling, formerly chief of staff is now deputy commander of the Alaskan Division; Lt.-Col. Henry H. Waller, wing deputy chief of staff becomes chief of staff of the division; Lt.-Col. Richard P. Wilson, former wing adjutant is acting adjutant general of the division.

OTHER OFFICERS

Directing the five major functions of the division are officers who each bear the title of assistant chief of staff. They are Lt.-Col. Albert L. Pearl, personnel; Lt.-Col. Reginald H. Greiner, supply and services; Maj. William Moulton, priorities and traffic; Lt.-Col. Paul Greiner, operations; and Lt.-Col. Roger Q. Williams, aircraft maintenance.

Alaskan Wing was activated Oct. 17, 1942, under the command of Col. Thomas L. Mosley.

Fusiliers Hold Annual Banquet At Sarcee Camp

The value of tradition in the British army was stressed at a number of after-dinner speeches given at the annual mess dinner of the 2nd (R Bn., Edmonton Fusiliers, held Friday evening at Camp Sarcee, at which Lt.-Col. H. E. Pearson, M.C., officer commanding, presided.

Brig. F. W. W. Harvey, V.C., M.C., district officer commanding M.D. 13, was unable to attend the dinner, and he was represented by Col. H. C. Greer, AA and QMG, MD 13.

The officers' mess was decorated with flags, and on the tables were beautiful bouquets of flowers, which had been arranged by Mrs. Harvey.

Col. Greer, in his address, told of the traditions of many units of the British army. He said that annual dinners of that kind brought the officers of various units closer together, and provided an opportunity for better understanding and closer co-operation.

PLAYS MAJOR ROLE

Col. E. R. Knight, VD, also emphasized that tradition as developed in the British Army was playing a major part in the success of that army.

Lt. Col. J. D. Edgar, MC, recently appointed brigade major of the 41st (R) Brigade Group, Mayor Andrew Davison, captain and paymaster of the 2nd (Reserve) Bn., Calgary Highlanders, and Maj. W. C. Roberts, who recently retired as brigade major of the 41st (R) Brigade Group were the other speakers.

Manhunt Enters Its Third Week

Royal Canadian Mounted Police manhunt for Paul Abraham, 22-year-old Cherhill Indian, entered its third week Monday, continuing in unfavorable weather. Abraham disappeared late in the evening of July 17 after allegedly shooting and killing his wife, daughter of the tribal chief.

Trackers, led by Peter Pan, the RCMP dog from the Vegreville detachment, fought through a veritable jungle of brush and marshlands during intense heat in the past fortnight, and the search was being conducted relentlessly in spite of recent rains.

Police are being assisted by residents of the area concerned, but so far no trace of the fugitive has been found.

Abraham was said by his father-in-law to have picked up a rifle and followed his wife from their tent after a marital upset on the night of July 17. Shortly after was heard the noise of a discharging firearm. Some time later, the woman's body, with the gun nearby, was found in some bushes. Abraham, however, had vanished.

Start Work Aug. 10 Converting Shelter

Work on the conversion of the children's shelter into suites will start about Aug. 10, Maxwell C. Dewar, city architect, stated Monday.

He said that occupancy of the building will be given by the United States Army authorities on that date, although the lease is not up until Aug. 15. He said that several staff members of a civilian contractor will continue in residence until the lease termination date, but they will not interfere with the work of remodeling.

Plans for the interior alterations are being drawn, Mr. Dewar stated, and the suites will range in size from two to four rooms. There will be 11 suites available, he added.

Occupancy of the suites will be given as they are completed, and application is being made to the rental controller to set the monthly rental for the accommodation.

Before the Magistrate

Agnes Laboucane, who was given transportation home to McLennan a week ago, and who returned to Edmonton for some clothes she had not been able to pick up before, met a few friends who helped her celebrate what was intended to be a quick visit. The proceedings wound up in the court of Magistrate A. I. Millar, K.C., Monday morning, where she pleaded guilty to intoxication and acknowledged two previous convictions. She was sentenced to four months with hard labor.

John George Armitage pleaded guilty to stealing another man's suit of clothes and shoes, admitted that he had been convicted in January last on two counts of shoplifting, and was sentenced to 30 days with hard labor at Fort Saskatchewan. The court was told how the accused took the articles from the locker-room of a packing plant and sold them for $1.50. The offence took place last May, but authorities didn't catch up to the accused until he went to selective service headquarters last week.

Prisoner's Leg Yields Large Glass Sliver

A piece of glass five-eighths of an inch thick, one-quarter of an inch wide and five inches in length, Saturday was removed from the right leg of Homer Hector Lebrecque, 26-year-old man at present charged by city police with shopbreaking.

The operation was performed at a city hospital, where, for the past week, Labrecque had been confined with a triple police guard in attendance.

Labrecque, bleeding profusely, was rushed to hospital on July 14, after he had allegedly struck down Detective Alex. Bremner in the Reliable Furniture Exchange, 10353 97 street, and then dived through the plate-blass door. After fleeing only a short distance he collapsed.

CHARGE READ

He was guarded at hospital until July 17, when he appeared in city police court, where a charge of shopbreaking was read to him. No plea was taken and the case was adjourned to Aug. 25.

It was re-adjourned on the latter date, because the accused did not appear to be well. He was returned to hospital, where another triple-guard was placed.

Labrecque's charge concerned the breaking and entering of Bell's Jobbing Company on July 14, and stealing a quantity of merchandise. Police alleged that the accused was attempting to sell a new jacket at the secondhand store when Detective Bremner walked into the store in the course of an investigation over the break-in earlier mentioned.

Two Are Injured As Cars Collide

Mrs. Caroline Nicoll of Bremner received cuts on her right wrist, while Michael Maher, 9734 73 avenue, was cut over one eye by broken glass, when the autos they were operating collided at 97 street and 102 avenue about 10:40 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Nicoll's vehicle was said by city police to have slid across the intersection after the impact, jumped the curb and crashed into a fire hydrant, breaking it off.

She was accompanied at the time by Mrs. Bodel McCue of Peers, and told police she had stopped before entering the intersection and was partly across the street when the vehicle driven by Albert Wesley, 5824 104 street, in which Maher was riding, came from the south and struck her car.

The operator of the second car reportedly informed officers the other auto did not stop at the intersection.

THE QUESTION

What do you think of the ceiling prices on fruit?

THE ANSWERS

MRS. E. RICHARDS, housewife: It's going to be all right as long as there is fruit on the market. It will mean a great deal to people who want to put up preserves this winter. Without a ceiling price the fruit would probably go sky high and be out of reach of the average person.

• • •

KAY JONES, clerk: It doesn't affect me an awful lot but I guess it's a good thing for the housewives. The only point is that the ceiling price may prevent fruit growers from sending their crop very far afield. They'll be better off selling it to the canners near their fruit farms.

• • •

MRS. T. THOMAS, housewife: It will be a fine thing just as long as we can get the fruit. Putting a ceiling price on it doesn't mean there will be any on the market though it's not going to do the housewives much good if there isn't any fruit available.

Former Officer Commanding Finds Loyal Edmonton Regiment "Tops"

Col. E. B. Wilson, CBE, ED, Edmonton, former commanding officer of The Loyal Edmonton Regiment, recently visited the regiment in Italy. In a letter to the Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce, he tells of renewing old acquaintances and of the wonderful spirit of the men.

Col. Wilson commanded the regiment in 1941 and 1942 when he was seconded for special duties at military headquarters in England.

He wrote: "I had the good fortune to be able to attend the 1st Canadian Infantry Division sports day recently, where, naturally, I resumed many old acquaintances and in the evening had dinner with the officers of The Loyal Edmonton Regiment, whose new commanding officer is an old friend of mine as at the outbreak of war he was a captain in the Seaforth Highlanders of Canada, which regiment and the PPCLI have always been brigaded with the 49th.

OLD ORIGINALS

"I was considerably surprised and very pleased to note the number of both officers and men who were originals or who had been in the regiment at the time I relinquished command in 1942, and who had survived every battle in Sicily and Italy in which The Loyal Edmonton Regiment participated.

On that day there was not one officer serving with the regiment who was an officer when we left Edmonton. They are reinforcement officers, or NCO's and men who have risen from the ranks, such as Maj. W. M. Longhurst, cashier of the Credit Foncier in Edmonton, who was orderly room corporal when we left home. The original regimental butcher is now a Lt. William Remple from Grande Prairie, and so on.

"They certainly have a first class reputation, their morale is indescribably wonderful and they are a very closely-knit family as well as a fighting team.

IMPROVE SERVICE

Referring to improved mail service, Col. Wilson wrote: "I received mail from Canada, via U.K., due to my change in address, dated Edmonton, June 26 and July 11 and Vancouver dated June 26 and July 9. Many officers and men have received much quicker service direct than that, with the result that mail service is being praised rather extravagantly. I am very much afraid that when bad weather comes the delay so caused will not be popular.

"The new tobacco scheme is in operation and seems to be working very well."

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Says Husband Kisses Often, Embarrasses

Women Bemoaning Inattention of Husbands May Be Consoled by This Complaint

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am 24 years old. Have been married five years and have two darling little boys. But I am so sick of married life and my husband that I could die. He is so possessive that I have no life of my own at all. When he is at home I can't even do my housework for he follows me around and wants to hug and kiss me. When we go anywhere his one subject of conversation is how beautiful and wonderful I am, which embarrasses me, for it isn't true.

I cannot stand his love any longer. He has turned me against love so much that I hate it. If I don't stop about fifty times when he is in a room with me to make a fuss over him, he thinks I don't love him any more, which is true. Yet I cannot leave him because of my little boys who adore their daddy. What shall I do?

UNHAPPY WIFE

ANSWER—Considering that the great majority of wives spend most of their time wailing and weeping because their husbands dropped all love-making at the altar and have never since given them a kiss that wasn't a peck on the cheek that was more of an insult than a caress, it is a strange thing to hear a woman complaining of being surfeited with conjugal affection.

Yet it is easily understood. Too much is too much of even a good thing. No one can eat thirty quails in thirty days, and clerks in candy stores are allergic to bon-bons. And this is true of love as well as food. Even Solomon, the most married man of whom we have any record, cried out: "Stay me with flagons, comfort me with apples, for I am sick of love."

So there we are, up against that curious streak of human contrariness that makes us want what we haven't got and sick and tired of what we possess, and we are powerless to deal with it, for we do not know how to heat up love that is getting luke warm, nor how to cool off the affection for which we no longer have a relish.

But it should console the ladies who bemoan the fact that their husbands are not great lovers to know that they can get fed up on too many chocolate creams, and that the rarer a kiss is the more flavor it has.

TEMPTATION

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young girl in my last year of high-school and after that I am going in training to be a nurse. My mother is dead and I live with my sister and her husband who are very good to me. But my trouble is that my brother-in-law has fallen in love with me. He is 28 and very facinating and while I am not in love with him, I am afraid I might be if I stay near him all the time, and I wouldn't hurt my sister for the world. I have another sister I could go to. What do you advise? ANNA

ANSWER: Flee from temptation as you would from a house afire. Don't spend another day under the roof of the cad who is planning to take advantage of your youth and inexperience to do you the greatest harm that a man can commit against a woman. Any man who would violate his own hearthstone with his amours by being unfaithful to his wife and trying to win her little sister has neither pity, nor shame, nor any decent emotion in him.

But you are too young and unworldly-wise to know how to defend yourself against him. Your only safety is in flight. GO. And at once.

SOUVENIRS

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think a man who is married for the second time should keep the diary he made when he was with his first wife and the letter she wrote him before she died? If I say anything about these souvenirs, he gets nasty. ROBERTA

ANSWER: A second marriage is a new deal and all the mementoes concerning the first marriage should be packed away out of sight. Also, the conversation concerning Number One. It does not make for happiness for the Number Two husband or wife to be continually reminded that he or she is sitting at the second table and eating the scraps of affection that were left over from the first serving.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Naturally everyone associated with organized bridge hopes that the national tournament being held at the Hotel Astor in New York City will be the last wartime tournament. The American Contract Bridge League is already making plans for victory tournaments throughout the country, at which it is hoped that thousands of dollars will be raised for scholarships for the orphans of our service men and women. Many bridge clubs are saving nickels and dimes now toward a scholarship. E. J. (Ned) Tobin of Miami says that his club will collect a scholarship every year.

Here is an interesting hand that Tobin brought up from Miami. South let East hold the first trick with the heart jack and won the return in dummy with the king. He now made the only play to give him his contract. He led the nine of clubs from dummy and East of course ducked. The nine held and the queen of clubs was led. Again East failed to cover, and Tobin was able to keep the lead in dummy by playing the ten. The last club was led from dummy and the pack held the trick. The ace brought home the fourth trick in that suit. Now Tobin led a low spade to dummy, and when West played the six, put on the eight. East won and elected to return a diamond and Tobin made his contract.

SAFE AND SOUND REDUCING

I.—Hypo-pituitary Obesity

A woman at thirty had a figure that rested the roving eye. Clothes built to the standard size fit her without so much as goring a gusset or whatever it is they generally do to make clothes fit. But, alas, by the time she reached the age of forty she had undergone considerable alterations herself. Her waist measure was still 29 inches but her chest or "bust" measure which had been 36 was only 33, while her hip measure, which had been 40 inches was now 46 inches. She had acquired "piano legs", a girdle of fat around the body at hip level, fat pads on the thighs above the knees, and a rather scrawny or gaunt appearance in the upper half of the body, except for fat pads on the upper arms. She had accumulated about thirty pounds of superflous flesh, not even distributed over the body, but almost entirely in the southern hemisphere.

Hypopituitary obesity. Ain't it awful, Agnes?

Like many of her misguided sisters this woman made the mistake of "going on a diet", a freak diet, which she was gullible enough to believe professional beauties use to keep their jobs. She had several goes at it and gave up each time after a week or two of earnest endeavor, achieving evident impairment of health, temper and good looks but not more than a pound or two of weight reduction—the pound or two being promptly regained when she broke the diet. Each such break occurred simultaneously with a carbohydrate gorge — induced or precipitated, perhaps, by the abnormal self-denial but such carbohydrate gorges or sprees of overindulgence in candy, sweets, starchy food are characteristic of hypopituitarism. So is increased carbohydrate tolerance—that is, the capacity of the body to assimilate carbohydrate (starch or sugar) without excreting sugar in the urine.

Everybody knows that the pituitary is one of the ductless glands. It is situated at the base of the brain behind the eyes above the back of the nasal cavity. Extracts of the pituitary gland of sheep, cattle or swine are used in medicine. One of these, administered by hypodermic injection, is an effective remedy in hypropituitary obesity, in many cases bringing about a satisfactory reduction and redistribution of the fat in five or six weeks.

But such gland treatment is not necessary in all cases. Equally good results are obtained from faithful adherence to a well planned diet and a daily schedule of moderate exercise.

These hypopituitary folk (mostly women, in their thirties, but some men too) not only have a great fondness for carbohydrate foods but suffer real distress when they have to deny themselves such food for several hours, distress which sometimes amounts to serious collapse. This is because their blood sugar level becomes too low. They feel "right" only when they partake of some food which will promptly bring the blood sugar level up to normal.

Points for Parents

Mother: "I'm not asking you to do things about the house for me—but I do expect you to do your part in making our home a pleasant place for us all to live in."

Mother: "I will not have you leaving your things strewn about like this! If anyone should happen to come in, I'd be terribly ashamed of the way my house looks."

Many mother-child dissensions can be avoided if children early realize home-making is a co-operative enterprise where each member does his share.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The aim of this department always has been to give its readers the best information available today on the subject of child care, feeding and training. To say that these are "my" ideas is to mistake the intent of the department. That they are sifted through me gives them, unquestionably, a slant that is definitely personal. But I never quarrel with the findings of science, much as I do learn from the reading of thousands of letters weekly.

Mrs. R. G. thinks I have some fine ideas but am all wet on the subject of maternal impressions beceuse both she and her mother gave birth to children with birthmarks they attributed to unpleasant experiences they had had. Here, Mrs. R. G., is what a professor of obstetrics at John Hopkins University—J. Morris Slemons has to say about maternal impressions.

"It is found, as a matter of experience, that the superstition regarding maternal impressions generally begins to cause anxiety during the second half of pregnancy; and then such influence is entirely out of the question. By the end of the second month the form of the embryo has been definitely determined, and subsequently cannot be altered. It is even true that errors in development occur within the first two or three weeks immediately following conception, and therefore at a time when pregnancy is not cleared recognized.

"Incidents in the life of a prospective mother are in point of fact equally inert so far as their influence on development is concerned, no matter whether they occur during the earlier or later part of pregnancy. There is never any anatomical means by which maternal impressions could be conveyed to the embryo. There are no nerves in the placenta to carry impulses from the mother to child. Even the blood streams of the two beings are kept apart and though it is unheard of that blood should carry the impulses, it could not prove effective here as the blood of the mother does not enter the child.

"It is nourished by food which passes from the mother's blood, but there is no more reason to expect this nutriment to exert an hereditary influence than there is to expect an infant to grow to resemble the cow with milk of which it is fed. With these two possibilities eliminated, no path can be imagined by which impulses might travel from mother to embryo.

"Departures from the usual form of the body occur during the earliest days of pregnancy and arise in consequence of some irregularity in the process which molds the body-form from a simple spherical mass of cells. Whenever these defects are associated with events which have disturbed the mother's mind, it cannot be other than simple coincidence."

War Kitchen

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Why do so many men like to eat downtown at hotels in hot weather? Wives can profit by a study of the food that smart hotel chefs are serving when the thermometer goes up.

"Men are ating more salads and greens today than ever before," reports John J. Hennessy, chairman of a Food Rationing Committee. "This is particularly true of men at lunch. Hotels all over the nation report that men today eat a salad and a light sandwich as a hot weather lunch."

Do not spoil your salad greens by improper handling. Wash them well, cut in 1½-inch lengths, wrap in a damp towel and then place in refrigerator to crisp for at least one hour before using.

Cold food sshould be served on chilled plates while hot food should be served on heated plates. All your preparation will have been in vain if you do not follow through with the proper—and attractive—service.

Never mix your salad green with dressing before they are ready to serve. The oil will wilt the greens.

Do not wash berries until you are ready to use them. Moisture causes them to deteriorate.

By merely adding a little extra to the main dinner dish, the housewife can give such a dish a touch of the unusual. Hotel chefs call this "giving the main dis' a lift." It is especially helpful in hot weather when extreme heat frequently tends to rob a person of his or her appetite. And it isn't a difficult job. Adding a fresh herb or two is one method. The addition of a favorite condiment is another.

Tomorrow's Menu

One of the great arguments for studying Latin has been that it was supposed to make other languages easier—especially French or Spanish. Prof. Guy A. Lackey of Oklahoma A. & M. College made a long study of this question and came to the following conclusion: "With other factors held constant students who study Latin one or more years before taking French or Spanish, make no greater progress in French or Spanish by the end of two years than students who do not study Latin." It looks like Professor Lackey has spiked another old belief!

MORE GAS FOR WAR MEANS LESS FOR US

IT'S a matter of simple arithmetic. There's only so much gasoline to go round. With over 50,000,000 gallons of petroleum products going from this hemisphere to the fighting forces every day—there's not a lot left for the civilian.

Think of aviation needs alone. The present demands for aviation gasoline exceed, in themselves, the peak total demand for all petroleum products during the last war. From 1939 to 1944 Canada's demand for aviation gas increased more than 3,000%. Only 5,455,980 gallons were used in 1939 for pre-war flying. More than 176,198,000 gallons were used by Canada in the fourth year of the war.

Think of invasion needs. Oil drove the ships to the point of rendezvous. Oil drove the battleships that pulverized enemy coast defences. Oil drove the landing craft ashore. High-octane gasoline sent the bombers and fighters into action. Gasoline is powering the tanks, trucks, jeeps, mobile guns, bulldozers and portable cranes that are swarming by thousands into France. The invasion surges ahead on a wave of oil.

Think of the needs of the war at sea. Canada's navy today has more than 43 times as many ships as in 1939. These ships are on patrol from Murmansk to Cape Town. The vast majority of them are powered by oil. Many of these are fast craft, designed to chase submarines—and heavy consumers of fuel. Yet, never has a single Canadian ship been held up for lack of fuel oil.

Every drop of petroleum for war comes from the same common pool as the gasoline for your car. The gasoline allowed for your car is issued for a purpose—to keep essential civilian transportation rolling.

Waste here at home means want in the battle zones. Thoughtless, needless, frivolous use of a single gallon robs the fighting man.

LESS CIVILIAN GAS MEANS MORE "FIGHTING GAS" FOR THE FORCES

NO. 3 OF A SERIES OF ANNOUNCEMENTS ISSUED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF MUNITIONS AND SUPPLY, HONOURABLE C. D. HOWE, MINISTER

Answering YOUR QUESTIONS about the GASOLINE SHORTAGE

How far would an AA ration book—a year's supply—take a heavy tank? . . . Less than 50 miles. How long would the normal peacetime amount of gasoline used by a Canadian motorist in one month last the invasion forces? . . . Only a fraction of a second! How is car sharing in Canada helping to save gasoline? . . . 50,870 shared cars under Canada's Wartime Industrial Transit Plan are carrying 203,000 war workers in 2,077 industries with a total employment of 962,805 employees.

YELLOW-haired Susie May wore a PINK (use RED lightly) sun bonnet and dress. She took her little PURPLE basket to gather the nice YELLOW (use it lightly) eggs in.

The chickens picked up the YELLOW corn that BROWN-haired Teddy scattered for them. The rooster was white, but the hen was OCHRE-YELLOW (use a little BROWN in the YELLOW). They had RED combs and YELLOW feet.

The grass was GREEN and there were RED brick paths through it (use YELLOW with the RED to tone it down). There was a YELLOW dandelion in the grass.

The roof of the house was BROWN and the sides of the house were light YELLOW. There was a GRAY (use BLACK lightly) rain pipe along the roof. The door and window frame were BROWN, but the step was GRAY.

"Oh see the RED and PINK hollyhocks growing along the YELLOW fence!" said Susie May. They had big dark GREEN leaves.

"See the BROWN mule looking over the fence?" cried Teddy. "His hair is as BROWN as mine."

"Um—I wish he'd kick one of those RED apples over the fence!" said Susie May, tossing her YELLOW curls. Susie May's shoes were BLACK and Teddy's were BROWN.

The tree had a GRAY trunk and light GREEN leaves.

The field beyond the fence was dark GREEN, the sky was BLUE with a white cloud. You can make the sky extend behind the lettering.

Chicago Futures Trading Is Quiet

CHICAGO, July 31—(AP)—The grain market was dull today and price changes in the wheat pit were minor. All futures showed an easy undertone with oats and rye leading the decline.

Resting orders held wheat prices about steady but any attempt at a rally brought out hedges. Some of the buying was attributed to short covering.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅛ lower, Sept. 1.55⅝. Oats were off ⅛ to ⅝, Sept. 71. Rye was ⅜ to ⅞ lower, Sept. 105⅛-⅜. Barley was off ⅜ to ⅝, Sept. 1.12.

Chinese Troops Pierce Defences Of Jap Bastion

CHUNGKING, July 31.—(AP)—Chinese troops have pierced the city limits of Tengchung, principal Japanese Yunnan province base and most heavily fortified bastion in the Salween area, and 2,000-battle-weary Japanese are facing extermination at the hands of Chinese battering at the ancient city walls, an official American review of operations said last night.

Fall of the inter city of Tengchung is "only a matter of time," said the review. Its capture would be hailed as the greatest victory of the Salween offensive.

COMMON GOAL

Tengchung is less than 60 miles southeast of the fighting in North Burma around the besieged city of Myitkyina, and the Salween troops share, with the Chinese-American forces in North Burma the common goal of reopening an overland route to China.

When the city falls, the way will be cleared for the final drive toward North Burma, to join with the Chinese-American troops and make possible the completion of the Ledo road, being constructed in the wake of the advancing Americans and Chinese.

Last night's Chinese communique said the Japanese made four desperate attempts to break the ring around the key city, but all were repulsed and the encirclement grew tighter.

Believed Alive and "In Saddle"

Speculation Hitler Is Dead Gains Little Support in U.K.

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

LONDON, July 31.—(AP)—Is Hitler dead? Are Himmler, Goering and Goebbels manipulating the reins of rule behind his disembodied spirit?

The majority of Britons, high and low, and their American counterparts in this capital do not think so. Prime Minister Churchill spoke for most of them when, addressing a gathering of RAF fliers in Normandy last Sunday, he said regretfully, "They missed the old bastard."

Mr. Churchill did not explain why he thought the Fuehrer still breather. But other authoritative persons think the course of events bears it out. The usually prolific rumor mills of the continent contribute little to clarification.

IF DEAD, SO WHAT

Such discussion produces the counter-question, "If Hitler were dead, so what?"

Military observers doubt that it would make any immediate difference at the fronts because the turn there is called now by the armies of Russia and the Allies. Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons this week that Hitler represents an element that must be crushed and erased. Obviously that element still is in the saddle regardless of whether Hitler still lives.

Veteran monitors in the BBC's counter-propaganda division and the ministry of information say Hitler is alive, basing their judgment on the speech broadcast from Berlin early the morning of July 21.

The chief of the ministry of information staff said he did not believe the voice could have been faked "because this speech was delivered in a restrained conversational tone which is hard to imitate."

MUCH PROPAGANDA

Nazi propaganda went to great lengths to establish by means of broadcasts and pictures—which appeared to most persons here to be authentic—that the Fuehrer survived.

As to the results of the July 20 bombing on the situation inside Germany, this speculation came from foreign office circles:

"If Hitler were dead it would not mean much unless it were generally known within Germany. Then the figurehead with his grip on the masses would be lost and the other Nazi top dogs might fall out and fight. Then, too, the dissident generals would be harder to handle. Since the Nazis apparently are having their way with the army it can be assumed that Hitler is still there and in the saddle."

Mrs. Irene Jolivette, 12217 87 street, $1,200; L. Smith, 11041 129 street, $1,000; Mike Pepullesky, 10318 84 street, $1,000; P. N. Saunders, 11219 68 street, $1,500; O. Siller, 9425 99B street, $5,000, and A. Yates, 10505 132 avenue, $800.

THE SEARCH FOR OIL IN ALBERTA

FACTS vs FANTASY

★ OVER $24,000,000 WAS EXPENDED BY THE OIL INDUSTRY BETWEEN JANUARY 1ST, 1940, AND MAY 31ST, 1944, ON GEOLOGICAL INVESTIGATION AND DRILLING OF WELLS ON UNPROVEN STRUCTURES.

This year, over $800,000 per month—around $10,000,000 a year—is being spent by the Oil Industry in continuing intensified efforts to discover new fields in this province.

Practically no revenue is yet forthcoming from these expenditures. More than 50% of the expenditures are by companies not now deriving revenue from Turner Valley, so far the only major revenue producing oil field in Alberta.

Because there is no easy road to Oil discovery, the Industry accepts its losses; hopes eventually to cover deficits and make a profit when and if new large oil fields are opened up.

★ OVER $25,000,000 WAS EXPENDED BY TURNER VALLEY OPERATORS BETWEEN JANUARY 1ST, 1940, AND MAY 31ST, 1944, IN DRILLING THE PROVEN SECTION OF TURNER VALLEY AND IN OPENING EXTENSIONS TO THIS FIELD.

Because every oil well is a depleting asset, whose production commences a gradual decline from the day it makes its first oil, new drilling must be carried out continuously to maintain the productive potential of a field.

This year, over $400,000 per month—around $5,000,000 a year—is being expended in continuation of Turner Valley drilling.

PAST PRODUCTION PEAK

Because the Turner Valley field has passed it productive peak with the development in recent years of the greater part of the proven area, rate of drilling will gradually decline in this field, as remaining sites are drilled out.

At the same time, production from this field will decline steadily, the decline being accelerated as drilling slows down.

★ To offset the decline in Turner Valley yield, the development of Unproven Areas must be maintained at least at the current level, if possible, be increased in the hope of securing new production to offset this decline in order to meet the needs of National Defence, Agriculture and essental business requirements.

The Oil Industry is taking and is ready to continue taking heavy Financial Risks involved in maintaining an adequate oil development program, risks involving spending of sums equal to half of the entire Annual Budget of the Alberta Government.

THE PEOPLE OF ALBERTA MUST ANSWER FOR THEMSELVES THESE QUESTIONS:

★ "Would your Government be willing to risk half of its entire Budget in hazardous oil exploration?"

★ "If your Government is ready to take the risks, from where and whom will it get the money to finance its oil exploration plus the normal functions of government?"

Today the Oil Industry takes all the Risks. THE ALBERTA GOVERNMENT OBTAINS "PROFIT WITHOUT RISK." Remember well these FACTS on Oil, as at the beginning of 1944:

★ The Alberta Government:

Capital RISKED in Development	$13,000,000
PROFIT realized to date	Nil

★ The Oil Industry:

Capital RISKED in Development	$136,780,000
LOSS accumulated to date	18,000,000

(This is the Second Statement on FACTS About Oil issued by the ALBERTA PETROLEUM ASSOCIATION, representing all branches of the Alberta Oil Industry. Copies are available to all Candidates in the current Alberta Election Campaign, regardless of party.)

Nazi Air Force On French Front Takes Big Drop

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, July 31—(AP)—The German air force opposing the Allied air power in France has shrunk from 4,000 planes to less than 1,000, it was estimated yesterday. This force has back-tracked across the skies it once called its own under the command of Field Marshal Hugo Sperrle, a 100-per cent Nazi. Of approximately 950 craft left to his command, probably no more than half or three-quarters of the total could be put in the sky at once.

Funeral Tuesday For Old-Timer

A funeral service will be held for Mrs. Mary Jane Lehane, of 10228 113 street, a former old-time resident of Leduc who died Sunday. She was 75 years old.

Her husband, J. J. Lehane, predeceased her in December, 1943. He was formerly secretary-treasurer of the Leduc principality.

Mrs. Lehane was born in Ireland and came to Leduc with her husband 30 years ago. They resided there until recently.

She is survived by a daughter Aileen L. Lehane at home and a son Joseph of Swift Current, Sask.

The funeral service will take place at 10 a.m. Tuesday from the St. Joseph's Cathedral.

Former Resident Is Dead at Coast

Alex Gordon, manager of the Edmonton branch of the Gutta Percha and Rubber Ltd., for three years, 1939 to 1942, dropped dead in the Empress hotel, Victoria, Sunday evening, according to information received here.

Mr. Gordon went to the Pacific coast in 1942 where he was manager of the Vancouver branch of his company.

He had just finished dinner in the hotel and collapsed in the lobby, dying soon afterward.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Berniece, in training at the University hospital, in Edmonton, and a brother, W. Gordon, of this city.

McCoy Health Service

While many people are familiar with acute appendicitis, they are not so well informed regarding chronic appendicitis, which is a fairly common disorder.

Patients who have developed this trouble may remain unaware of the true nature of their discomfort. This is partly because of the fact that frequently the chief symptoms of chronic appendicitis will not point to inflammation of the appendix but will appear to be coming from the stomach.

A most careful examination may in fact be necessary before it will become a certainty that a diseased appendix is the source of the patient's distress.

The symptoms vary considerably, although the most pronounced symptoms are likely to point to the stomach as the offender. The patient may describe a sense of discomfort after meals, and this may become intense enough to be called a true stomachh pain. The patient is distressed by stomach and intestinal gas, and by nausea. Any pain which is presesnt is likely to appear in the stomach region and not so likely to localize in the region of the appendix itself. Occasionally, the pain may appear to be distributed over the entire abdomen.

Almost invariably the patient will be bothererd by a persistent constipation and will probably be worrying more about that than about the condition of the appendix.

The most definite way to arrive at a correct diagnosis is to take X-ray pictures of the colon and to study the appendix under the fluoroscope. When the appendix is located with the fluoroscope it will be discovered that the point of greatest tenderness centres around the appendix. If the examining doctor uses the fingers to move the appendix, the point of greatest tenderness will likewise be moved to correspond with the changed position of the appendix.

Spastic colitis, or chronic colitis may produce symptoms easily confused with those of chronic appendicitis; however, if the distress is due to colitis it is more likely to be general in nature, being spread over a large part of the colon. Usually in colitis the tenderness will not be restricted to just the appendix alone.

The conservative treatment of chronic appendicitis depends upon diet and better bowel hygiene. The patient will do well to omit those foods which cause intestinal irritation and it is very important that the colon be cleansed regularly, using the enema or some of the lubricators or bulk-producers if necessary. Laxatives should be avoided as they may do considerable harm.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Stage Field Day At University

Lectures and demonstrations were given to 65 persons at the University of Alberta on Saturday afternoon, when the annual field day of the field crops department was held indoors. Field inspection of forage and cereal crops at the University was prevented because of wet weather.

The visitors were welcomed at the medical building by Dr. A. G. McCalla, who outlined the work being done. J. W. Hopkins, field superintendent, gave a description of seed production operations, and Dr. J. R. Fryer explained the uses made of forage crops.

The party visited the plant pathological laboratory, where Dr. A. W. Henry showed various plant disease forms under a microscope. The milling and baking laboratory was also visited, and Dr. McCalla showed bread made from Red Bobs and Regent Wheats grown on gray, black and brown soils. Loaves made from grain grown on the latter prairie soils had 2½ times the volume of equal amounts of flour from wheat off wooded soils.

Legion Watching Eviction Order

Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion will hold a special meeting to decide what action should be taken if eviction of an Edmonton woman is implemented Thursday noon as notified.

This announcement was made Monday by W. J. Williams, secretary-manager of the Canadian Legion after interviewing officials on behalf of the tenant.

"This family is awaiting a house which is under construction at the present time and which should be ready for occupation very shortly," Mr. Williams said. "The husband is a veteran of the last war and has been an employee of the city for the last 25 years. They have three boys serving overseas, one of whom has been wounded."

He said the Legion is making an effort to have the landlord hold off action until the family is able to move in to the new home.

New Rulings On Used Car Sales Issued

OTTAWA, July 31—(CP)—New regulations applying to the sale of used cars were announced today by the Prices Board in a move to check sales at illegal prices.

Effective tomorrow, all cars held by dealers must carry a price tag and reports of sales must be made by dealers and private individuals. In addition, individuals advertising a used car for sale must give full particulars, including name and address, full description of the car and the proposed selling price.

Private individuals selling a car cannot insist on a trade-in and dealers cannot require a trade-in as part payment when the prospective purchaser is eligible for a permit for new or used tires. Trade-ins may be required by dealers on sales to other classes of buyers but a reasonable valuation must be given on the car turned in.

ONE CAR PER YEAR

Only one car maybe purchased in any calendar year by an individual, but a person having five or more cars registered in his name during 1943 is permitted to buy one used car in each calendar year for each five owned by him in 1943.

Ceiling prices for used cars remain the same as under the old order, but a reduction from the maximum prices must be made on the basis of the car's condition at the time of the sale.

Signed statements on every sale must bear the signature of a witness and must be completed in triplicate with one copy going to the purchaser and one filed by the seller with the nearest local office of the board within four days of the sale. Forms for these reports are being made available at local ration offices.

Price tags must show the make, model, model year and serial number, accessories which are to include any spare tire and tube and the proposed sale price which must not exceed the maximum allowed by the order.

Purchasers eligible for new or used tires under the rubber control regulations may present a signed certificate to dealers and are then entitled to purchase a used car if the purchaser is prepared to pay cash and the dealer has a car to suit his requirements.

Jamaica Official Buying Livestock

J. W. (Jack) Howe is in the city on a brief visit, making purchases of dairy cattle and other livestock for the British government. He is senior livestock officer at Jamaica.

Mr. Howe, who received the degree of B.Sc. in agriculture at the University of Alberta in 1925, later was graduated from the Iowa State college with the degree of M.Sc. He is the son of the late W. Wallace Howe, of Edmonton. He left Edmonton in 1931 and shortly afterward arrived in Jamaica to take over the operating of an agricultural school. He has lived at Kingston, Jamaica, ever since. His family consists of his wife and two children.

Mr. Howe said purebred stock is being purchased for shipment to Jamaica. The shipments, some of which have reached there already, are expected to total 150 head. In addition to cattle, there will be purchases of hogs and sheep.

The cattle are mainly for dairy purposes and include Jerseys, Holsteins and Guernseys. Purebred bulls have been bought to be placed on Jamaica farms under the government's sire loan policy. Both the British and Jamaica governments are interested in the scheme.

Purchases of stock have been made in the United States and in Eastern Canada.

Wives Preparing Follow Husbands

Wives of Royal Air Force men are preparing to follow their husbands home to the British Isles, according to information received here.

Some of these women are Canadian girls who have married RAF men while they were stationed at British Commonwealth Training schools here, and others are wives of officers who followed their husbands to Canada, and are now going back home.

This rush for transportation facilities has been caused by the closing of the training schools in Canada. All arrangements have to be made through RCAF headquarters and it is reported that a large number of applications have been received for transportation. No exact figures are yet obtainable as to how many women will be leaving.

Landeryou Quits Government Post

Mr. Landeryou, former Social Credit M.P. for Calgary East, is second member of the civil service to resign as a result of nomination for the election. Two weeks ago, H. D. Carrigan, Social Credit candidate ate in Edmonton, resigned as secretary of the post-war reconstruction committee.

Robots Continue To Strike Britain By Day and Night

LONDON, July 31.—(CP)—Flying bombs hurtled down on the southern counties and the London area during the night, despite night fighter patrols and alert anti-aircraft batteries which knocked down some of the robots in full flight.

The night assaults, which caused a number of casualties, came after a day of sporadic flying-bomb salvoes as the Germans continued their new plan of sending the robots over in batches with lulls between each burst.

Claim Rommel Dies of Wounds After Strafing

By WES GALLAGHER

CANISY, France, July 31.—(AP)—A senior American officer said Saturday prisoners had reported Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was severely wounded in a strafing attack near Lesieux, east of Caen, and a French woman who has been behind the enemy lines said the Marshal died later in a Bernay hospital.

A German captain told his captors that Rommel's car was thrown into a ditch and he was unconscious for six hours. This account said the incident took place about two weeks ago and Rommel still was in a critical condition.

The woman, who is a member of an organization equivalent to the Red Cross for dealing with war prisoners, located the attack near Falaise, on the British-Canadian front.

SPEAK OF DEATH

She said the Germans stationed here had spoken of Rommel's death as an accepted fact, but the report lacked confirmation from any authoritative Allied source.

The woman, about 40 years of age, carried credentials of the Vichy war ministry for dealing with prisoners and had been inspecting the plight of French Senegalese forced to work in a munitions plant at Dancy.

WITH THE U.S. 1st ARMY IN FRANCE, July 31—(AP—An American staff officer said yesterday information from French civilians coincided with reports of German prisoners that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had died of wounds received in a strafing on the Caen front. Details given by French civilians, said the officer, strengthened the report of the German Field Marshal's death but it was not yet considered "certain."

LONDON, July 31.—(CP)—German organs denied today that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel had been killed or seriously wounded in France. The German-controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Agency in Stockholm quoted Berlin official circles as saying that Rommel is "in good condition."

Local Farms Need Warm, Dry Weather

Crops in Edmonton district are in need of warm, dry weather to head out grain, according to the provincial department of agriculture. Sufficient moisture has been accumulated in soil to last until harvesting is completed.

Between Edmonton and Calgary, crops have been damaged by heavy wind and rain storms. While in some areas, grain stands have been flattened by storm, it is estimated good weather would improve the condition and most of the crop could be harvested.

No estimate was available as to amount of damage caused by storms to date.

New Co-Op. Formed

Newest "co-op" to be established in Alberta has been started at Rich Lake, under the name of Rich Lake Co-operative Association, according to government co-operative officers. Head office of the association is at Rich Lake. Ben Johnson is provisional secretary.

Interest Load Will Be Eased By $4,919,701

At midnight Monday the interest load on $4,919,701.98 of Edmonton debentures will have passed from the shoulders of the taxpayers as the deadline for the surrender of that amount of bonds called for Aug. 1 goes into effect.

The call was made several months ago, and is part of the general refunding at lower interest rates than is being negotiated by the city commissioners.

An official of the treasurer's department stated that the bonds to be surrendered on Aug. 1 will be destroyed as fast as they are received at that office.

He pointed out that these bonds carried interest rates of 4½, 5 and 5½ per cent, and are being redeemed with sinking fund assets accumulated in recent years.

Payment will be made also on principal and interest on the semi-annual instalments under the Fortin refinancing plan of 1937. The Aug. 1 instalment calls for payment of $313,000 on principal account, and $559,000 on interest. This will be the final payment under this plan, as it is expected that the whole city debt will be refunded before the next payment is due.

Two major refunding operations have been carried out in addition to the call of the bonds for Aug. 1. One was for $1,770,000, and the other for approximately $9,000,000. The latter refunding operation was carried out exclusively in the United States.

The balance of the debt refunding is now being negotiated by the city commissioners, and it is anticipated that the entire debt will have been financed by February of next year.

Million Messages Over New Service

On June 17, 1944, the 843 Signals Service Battalion, U.S. Army, handled its one millionth message since the teletype service between Whitehorse and Edmonton was begun in October, 1942.

The two operators on duty on the "graveyard" shift were unimpressed with the message because they didn't realize its significance.

On traffic check up last week it was discovered that the innocent looking message, resembling so many thousand others handled by the teletype personnel was distinctive because exactly 999,999 messages had preceded it.

The message originated in Whitehorse and was addressed to the Regional Control Officer, 16th Weather Squadron, Edmonton. Total transmission time, through two relays, was exactly eight minutes.

Cyclonic Wind Hits Calgary

CALGARY, July 31—(CP)—Loaded with dust, a cyclonic wind roared through Calgary at a peak velocity of 80 to 90 miles per hour Saturday afternoon and left in its wake a trail of smashed trees, damaged roofs, broken electric wires and disrupted lighting services.

Following the wind an inch-and-a-half rain drenched the city up to 6 a.m. Sunday, and another half inch fell during the day.

Last night the city electric light department was still restoring damaged services, and Robert MacKay, department superintendent, said "Everyone will have their service restored by tonight." Permanent repairs, however, "will take us at least a month to complete," he said, adding his men were still working on damages caused by the last wind storm.

In every part of the city trees lost branches or were knocked down completely by the tremendous blast, which stayed at a steady 45 to 50 miles per hour for more than 15 minutes, but crescendoed up to 85 miles per hour in great gusts.

CCF Party Polled 53% of Sask. Vote

REGINA, July 31.—(CP)—Fifty-three per cent of the total votes cast in the Saskatchewan election were polled by CCF candidates, according to official returns of the June election, announced Saturday by J. W. McLeod, clerk of the executive council.

Liberal candidates in the voting this year received 34.6 per cent of the vote while Progressive Conservative candidates obtained 11.3 per cent.

A total of 390,360 votes were cast by the Saskatchewan electorate in the election that saw the Liberal government swept out of power to retain only five seats in the legislative assembly.

The CCF captured 44 seats including three two member constituencies and will have 47 members in the next provincial house.

Votes cast for CCF candidates in the 49 constituencies totalled 208,891. Liberal candidates received 134,295 and Progressive Conservatives 44,156. Votes cast for all other party candidates including Independents, Social Credit and Labor Progressives numbered 3,026.

U.S. Warplanes Using Airdrome On Guam Island

On Tinian island, another of the southern Marianas group, Marines captured Tinian town and swept ahead to bottle the Japanese defenders in the island's southern end.

Enemy resistance there increased steadily as the Americans compressed an estimated 4,000 or 5,000 Japanese troops into an ever-smaller pocket.

The Marines avenged the tiny American garrison which was overwhelmed there shortly after the Pacific war opened in December, 1941.
